Taft Wins In Illinois GOP Test

Snows Under Stassen and Eisenhower in Republican Primary Election

Vote Totals

Scattering of Write-In Votes for Warren and MacArthur

Chicago, April 9 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio scored an overwhelming victory in yesterday's Illinois Republican primary election.

In the GOP presidential popularity contest, Taft snowed under his two major opponents—Harold E. Stassen and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower—duplicating his primary victories last week in Nebraska and Wisconsin.

Taft apparently won control over 48 of the 50 delegates to the GOP national convention in July—which represents his greatest delegate victory in any primary to date this year. There was a possibility two delegates who favored the candidacy of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower might win in downstate Illinois.

The primary results are not binding upon the delegates.

Early in the tabulation Taft established a victorious trend, which deviated only slightly thereafter. With more than two-thirds of the precincts counted today, Taft led Stassen nearly 6 to 1, and Eisenhower almost 7 to 1.

Eisenhower, who was not officially a candidate in the presidential preference primary, placed third in the GOP voting on the basis of a write-in campaign.

Running without opposition as the Democratic presidential candidate, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee piled up a huge vote.

There was a small total of write-ins for Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois in the Democratic column.

However, the state Democratic organization is expected to give the delegate vote to Stevenson in the event he enters the presidential race. He was unopposed for renomination for governor.

The state GOP organization is known to favor the candidacy of Taft. Both parties will elect 10 additional delegates at a state convention before the July national meeting.

The vote totals from 7,431 of the state's 9,610 precincts:

Republican: Taft 641,908; Stassen 112,202; Eisenhower (7,388 precincts) 98,702.

The vote totals from 6,612 of 9,610 precincts:

Democrat: Kefauver 379,288;

Raise in Fares, Other Means Are Suggested to Keep Buses in 2 Wards

Decision by Public Service Commission May Be Given by End of April on Resumption of Service in Lucas, Wilbur Areas

Examiner John F. O'Brien closed the hearing before the Public Service Commission Wednesday afternoon after hearing city officials and several residents of the 12th and 13th wards in opposition to the application of the Kingston City Transportation Corporation to permanently suspend operation of the Wilbur avenue and the Fairview-Lucas avenue bus lines.

O'Brien, in an effort to speed up the matter and get an early determination by the Commission sought to shorten the record and after several had testified as to need for the lines, and also offered several suggestions which might give the areas some service and still relieve the bus company of an excessive financial burden, he asked that persons present who would testify in a similar manner arise and be counted. Twenty-six persons were recorded.

It is hoped that a determination in the matter can be reached by the Commission before the end of April when the present temporary suspension order expires. A further continuance of the temporary order is vigorously opposed.

Suggests Company Quit

Supervisor James Martin of the 12th Ward was the first witness called by Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly after the bus company had rested its case.

Martin said the corporation had been granted a franchise to operate a bus service but had "not lived up to it." He suggested that if the corporation did not propose to give service that it surrender its franchise and another company be permitted to operate the service.

In a five point program Martin among other things advocated an increase in fares on the so called "feeder lines" with a charge for a transfer from one line to another. He also suggested that the school ticket rate be abolished if necessary, saying the people would rather pay a regular fare for school children than be forced to pay taxi fares. He also suggested that a survey be made of the entire bus system and improvements made to the schedules.

Cullum Wants Good Service

Alderman Robert Cullum of the 12th Ward also testified, as to the need for bus service in the area, which has built up considerably in recent years. He suggested a better schedule and better adherence to the schedule.

Howard Fox stressed the inconvenience to people of the 12th Ward since the service has been discontinued. He, like many others bought a home in the area expecting that bus service would be extended the residents. Without a bus it is inconvenient for residents to get to the shopping area and it is necessary for people to take their children to school, or hire a taxi.

In his own case Fox said it became necessary for him to take his child to school and get her. He suggested a "reasonable"

Hickey's History Of Kingston to Be Published in June

The Story of Kingston, by Captain Andrew S. Hickey, a narrative history of Kingston and Ulster county, will be published in June by Stratford House, New York, according to an announcement received from the publisher, and will be included in the nationally popular American Heritage Series.

The author, a lifelong resident of Kingston, is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy, and has been attached to United States Embassies and Legations in Europe, South America and Mexico when not performing regular naval duties. Locally, he was for several years president of the Ulster County Historical Society, and is now president of the Kingston City Library Association. History—local, national and international—has been his hobby for many years.

Kingston's story is, in a sense, the story of the founding of the New York by the Dutch and English. It spans the entire period from "tomahawks to television," and even records the historical visit of the Queen of Holland, heralding the opening of the 300th Anniversary Celebration. Its format, according to the publisher, will be in keeping with the high standard of the previous 15 titles in this popular series. With nearly 300 pages, it will be studded with halftone reproductions of old, rare, and nostalgic prints of bygone days.

Steel Workers Call Move Big Lock-Out

First Shad Caught Off Kingston Point

The first buck shad of the season were caught off Kingston Point in the Hudson river, Monday afternoon.

Three fisherman hauled in their nets with one apiece about 1 p. m., they said. The fish weighed about three pounds each, it was reported.

The shad fisherman, all veterans with about 20 years experience on the river, were Eugene and Abraham Van Steenburgh and Louis Naccarato.

They expect that the shad runs will start next week.

Mill Operators Say Work Canceled Until Problem Is Cleared

Pittsburgh, April 9 (AP)—The major part of the nation's steel industry stood idle today and steelworkers who called off a midnight strike cried "lock-out."

Reports from across the country gave no indication of "Big Six" steel firms operating under President Truman's dramatic seizure order, beyond admitting maintenance men to duty.

Most of the industry's 650,000 steelworkers found company gates closed.

Two firms which initiated a court fight against the President's order announced flatly that operations were unfeasible until the situation became clearer.

Other major firms said "orderly" resumption of operations, requiring re-heating of open hearth furnaces, necessarily took time.

Some smaller companies opened and moved to resume full-scale operations as soon as possible.

Must Await Call

In Chicago, a spokesman for the huge U. S. Steel Corporation put it this way:

"Some maintenance men have been called back, but no employes are to report for work until called by their supervisor."

He said he had not further comment.

At plant after plant of major firms across the nation, workers reporting for day shift duty were turned away by company guards.

"This is a lock-out," some of them muttered.

Republic Steel in Cleveland, one of the companies waging a court fight against the President's order, posted a notice at its gates saying it was "not feasible" to operate until the situation clarified.

Steelworkers arriving with their lunch pails at the gates of the U. S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin plants here in the nation's steel capital were denied admittance. Only a handful of maintenance men were permitted to enter.

Unlike Republic, the U. S. Steel Corp., bellwether of the industry, gave no indication that the delay in resuming operations was a matter of policy.

Say Action Late

"The action came so late last night, we haven't got organized yet," a U. S. Steel spokesman said.

He said resumption of operations would be gradual process—the reverse of the gradual cooling down of furnaces and furloughing of men in the few days ahead of the strike deadline.

The workmen who were turned away congregated in small groups to mull over the "strike off, but no work" situation.

They re-hashed again the President's speech that blasted the industry's position in the dispute and some of them sang:

"We're just wild about Harry."

UN Will Not Trade Concession On Red Airfield

Chinese Playing a Game Says Gen. Keightley Who Is Optimistic Concerning Peace

Munsan, Korea, April 9 (AP)—A UN negotiator said today the allies "absolutely would not" trade a ban on repairing military airfields for the "strictly phony issue" of Russia as a Korean truce supervisor.

Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison made the statement after a Chinese negotiator hinted for the second successive day the Communists would like to make such a swap.

"They are trying to offer us something that should not be an issue at all for something really vital to an armistice," Harrison told newsmen.

In Tokyo British Gen. Sir Charles F. Keightley commented the "Chinese are playing a game at Panmunjom. They know, everyone knows, the UN is anxious for peace. When that peace will come probably will be decided by the men in Peiping."

Nevertheless Keightley said he was "optimistic that within six months an uneasy peace will be worked out in Korea." Keightley, commander of British Far East land forces, made the statement as his "personal opinion" after an inspection tour of Korea and a conference with Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief UN truce negotiator.

At Panmunjom Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang made the indidirect bid to trade off two of the major stumbling blocks to a Korean truce. The allies want a ban on building or repairing military air fields. The Communists want Soviet Russia named as one of the "neutral nations" who will police the armistice.

Hsieh said the two questions "could be settled together." But he did not press the point. And Harrison ignored the hint.

Wednesday's session lasted only 11 minutes. It was one of the longest in recent days.

Frank Costello appears unworried as he faces newsmen in Federal Court, N. Y., anteroom after Judge Sylvester J. Ryan sentenced him to 18 months in prison and fined him $5,000 for refusing to testify before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee last year.

Plans Discussed By Central Group For B'way Opening

Committee Is Set to Buy Gifts for Distribution During Gala Event Slated in May

A special committee of the Central Businessmen's Association appointed to make arrangements for the block party, dance and entertainment to mark the opening of the Broadway underpass, advanced plans at a meeting last night.

The committee planned the purchase of three main gifts to be presented free by the merchants as one of the main events of the big night and these will be in addition to hundreds of useful gifts they will donate for the occasion. The gifts will be on display for several weeks before the event.

Attorney Thomas Saccoman, general chairman, met last night with Mortimer Englander and Herman Rafalowsky, co-chairmen, and with Louis "Casey" Jones, the association's president, and George Dittmar, treasurer, to advance details for the celebration.

May 29 Tentative Date

The big night is tentatively scheduled to be held on or about May 29 the date on which the crossing project is due to be completed.

All members of the association are scheduled to meet April 17 to discuss final plans, and President Jones stressed that it is urgent that every member attend this session at the Ruzzo Bowlatorium that night.

The committee announced following last night's meeting that "tickets for the gifts may be obtained without obligation from merchants who are members of the Central Businessmen's Association. Placards identifying these merchants will be prominently displayed by the participating stores as soon as a definite date for the completion of the underpass has been set."

Entertainment suitable for all members of a family is planned, and all residents of the city and county are "cordially invited to join in the fun."

Insists Steel Price Hike Would Wreck U. S. Stabilization Program

Washington, April 9 (AP)—President Truman sent Congress a special message on the steel situation today, offering to cooperate with the legislators in establishing "specific terms and conditions" by law for government operation of the seized mills.

The message was dispatched to the Capitol as the steel industry fought back in the courts against Truman's order last night for seizure of the plants.

Many of the major steel mills were closed.

Truman said in his message to Congress that he ordered seizure of the steel industry because he believed that to grant it the price increases it sought "would have wrecked our stabilization program."

Industry men had insisted that a price rise of $12 a ton for steel would be justified by wage rises recommended for workers by the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB).

Calls It His Duty

Truman, defending his action, told the legislators it was "my duty and within my powers as President."

The President's message went on to say that Congress might wish to pass legislation "establishing specific terms and conditions with reference to the operation of the steel mills by the government."

He added:

On the basis of the facts that are known to me at this time, I do not believe that immediate congressional action is essential; but I would, of course, be glad to cooperate in developing any legislative proposals which the Congress may wish to consider."

He said if Congress does not act, "I shall continue to do all that is within my power to keep the steel industry operating and at the same time every effort to bring about a settlement of the disputes so the mills can be returned to their private owners as soon as possible."

At Pittsburgh, the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. announced shortly after noon that it had notified the government it would operate its plants under the government seizure order "as far as it may safely do so."

Many big companies had made no announcement at all.

Executives Ruffled

In this situation, the immediate outlook for continued production of the steel vital to defense industries and thousands of consumer products was confused and uncertain.

It was plain, however, that steel executives had their backs up. They were smarting under the tongue-lashing the President gave them in a radio broadcast last night and were disposed to fight for what they consider their rights.

At 11 a. m. (EST) Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer, designated to take over and operate the mills for the government, told reporters he had not received any acknowledgment from any of the presidents of 71 steel companies.

Sawyer sent each president a telegram last night, advising of the seizure order Truman had issued because of the deadlock in the wage dispute between the in-

Grunewald Is Cited for Contempt

Refused to Talk About His Connection With Big Tax Cases

Washington, April 9 (AP)—The House cited Henry W. (The Dutchman) Grunewald for contempt of Congress today for "willful and deliberate refusal" to talk about his mysterious connection with big money tax cases figuring in tax scandal investigations.

By a rollcall vote of 332 to 0, the House whipped through the contempt citation with a minimum of discussion and without a voice being raised in his behalf.

Grunewald was not present to hear the House refer his "contumacious conduct" to the United States attorney for prosecution.

He was at home under a doctor's care—too sick, his lawyer said, to appear before House investigators who voted to cite him for contempt last Jan. 30 after five attempts, on four separate occasions, to break his silence.

Grunewald, 59, whose reported friendships extend to the capitol and the White House, would face a year in jail and $1,000 fine if convicted on contempt of the House.

The legal procedure requires the House to refer the case to the United States attorney for prosecution if the subcommittee action is upheld.

Grunewald, cited after five stormy but futile attempts to crack his silence in the face of questions about his alleged role in big-money tax cases, was pictured in committee testimony as a man who dealt in large sums of cash, was a friend of senators, a man with some influence in White House circles, and one who found doors open to him in the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Planning Clinic Scheduled On Thruway, Bridge Jobs

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce and the Lake Katrine Grange, are co-sponsoring a special planning clinic, of four sessions, the first of which will take place at the Lake Katrine Grange Hall at 8 p. m. Thursday. All persons interested are invited.

This announcement was made at a meeting of the Chamber board of directors last night by President Lawrence J. MacAvery. Chester A. Baltz, Jr., chairman of the special chamber community development committee made the arrangements after his committee had conferences with representatives of the Bureau of Planning of the State Department of Commerce.

The Thursday night sessions will be of two hours duration and the speakers will be Dr. George Robinson, head of the State Department Bureau of Planning and George Haynes, staff engineer. The presentation will be broad in nature giving the basic reasons for planning, the legal steps and responsibilities involved. With the completion of the Thruway and the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge, the area within 15 miles of Kingston will undergo radical changes.

Baltz stated that this clinic is being held to help Kingston and the area officials prepare for the development in an orderly fashion. Officials of the various townships have been invited.

There was an enthusiastic discussion of the recent visit of Queen Juliana. Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk had received a call from Mr. Lennarts, the State Depart-

Ancient Fire Cistern Found As Crossing Job Progresses

Spring weather is helping to step up work on city projects as well as that on the Broadway underpass, and as of today men were making progress on the rebuilding of sewer lines in the central section of the city.

Curbing is being biult on Cedar street in conjunction with the Broadway crossing project and workmen engaged on this job came upon one of the city's old fire cisterns at Cedar street and Broadway.

Cedar street is being widened as the new curbing is installed and the men were digging near one of the present curbs on the Cedar street side of Samuel's market when they came upon the cistern which had been built mostly under the sidewalk.

It is round in structure, built of brick and about 15 feet in diameter, and about 10 or 12 feet deep. Workmen of the local public works department came upon similar cisterns in the Wall and North Front street sections when the uptown streets were being rebuilt. They were used in the old days mainly to store water for fighting fires.

The sewer work in the central part of the city this week reached the Broadway and East Chester street intersection where a large excavation was dug in the center of the street.

The larger sewer line, which will increase facilities along a section of central Broadway, Staples, Brewster and Levan streets, will extend westward up Broadway to Staples street from East Chester street and into the other streets

Police Break Auto Window to Rescue Baby Locked In

A cop with a baseball bat scored for easier breathing uptown yesterday.

Several persons in the area and a baby, at least, breathed easier after Officer Walter Fitzgerald crashed the bat through the window of a car parked on Fair street.

Locked in the car, said a police report at 4:10 p. m., was a baby with a cloth over its face and the person who telephoned police headquarters said he feared the infant would smother.

Sgt. James Cullum dispatched Officers Fitzgerald and Frank Sammons to the car, which had been parked near the LeFever store. They reported that the mother had wrapped a bottle in a diaper and left it so the baby might reach the nipple.

Apparently part of the diaper had loosened and fell over the child's face, the report said.

Officer Fitzgerald obtained the bat from Potter Brothers sporting goods store at 294 Fair street, and after it was used, the officers reported, they "could see no danger of the baby smothering." The child's mother arrived just after the car window had been broken.

Raise in Fares, Other Means Are Suggested to Keep Buses in 2 Wards

Turner Joy, chief UN truce negotiator.

At Panmunjom Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang made the indidirect bid to trade off two of the major stumbling blocks to a Korean truce. The allies want a ban on building or repairing military air fields. The Communists want Soviet Russia named as one of the "neutral nations" who will police the armistice.

Hsieh said the two questions "could be settled together." But he did not press the point. And Harrison ignored the hint.

Wednesday's session lasted only 11 minutes. It was one of the longest in recent days.

Plans Discussed By Central Group For B'way Opening

Committee Is Set to Buy Gifts for Distribution During Gala Event Slated in May

A special committee of the Central Businessmen's Association appointed to make arrangements for the block party, dance and entertainment to mark the opening of the Broadway underpass, advanced plans at a meeting last night.

The committee planned the purchase of three main gifts to be presented free by the merchants as one of the main events of the big night and these will be in addition to hundreds of useful gifts they will donate for the occasion. The gifts will be on display for several weeks before the event.

Attorney Thomas Saccoman, general chairman, met last night with Mortimer Englander and Herman Rafalowsky, co-chairmen, and with Louis "Casey" Jones, the association's president, and George Dittmar, treasurer, to advance details for the celebration.

May 29 Tentative Date

The big night is tentatively scheduled to be held on or about May 29 the date on which the crossing project is due to be completed.

All members of the association are scheduled to meet April 17 to discuss final plans, and President Jones stressed that it is urgent that every member attend this session at the Ruzzo Bowlatorium that night.

The committee announced following last night's meeting that "tickets for the gifts may be obtained without obligation from merchants who are members of the Central Businessmen's Association. Placards identifying these merchants will be prominently displayed by the participating stores as soon as a definite date for the completion of the underpass has been set."

Entertainment suitable for all members of a family is planned, and all residents of the city and county are "cordially invited to join in the fun."

Insists Steel Price Hike Would Wreck U. S. Stabilization Program

Washington, April 9 (AP)—President Truman sent Congress a special message on the steel situation today, offering to cooperate with the legislators in establishing "specific terms and conditions" by law for government operation of the seized mills.

The message was dispatched to the Capitol as the steel industry fought back in the courts against Truman's order last night for seizure of the plants.

Many of the major steel mills were closed.

Truman said in his message to Congress that he ordered seizure of the steel industry because he believed that to grant it the price increases it sought "would have wrecked our stabilization program."

Industry men had insisted that a price rise of $12 a ton for steel would be justified by wage rises recommended for workers by the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB).

Calls It His Duty

Truman, defending his action, told the legislators it was "my duty and within my powers as President."

The President's message went on to say that Congress might wish to pass legislation "establishing specific terms and conditions with reference to the operation of the steel mills by the government."

He added:

On the basis of the facts that are known to me at this time, I do not believe that immediate congressional action is essential; but I would, of course, be glad to cooperate in developing any legislative proposals which the Congress may wish to consider."

He said if Congress does not act, "I shall continue to do all that is within my power to keep the steel industry operating and at the same time every effort to bring about a settlement of the disputes so the mills can be returned to their private owners as soon as possible."

At Pittsburgh, the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. announced shortly after noon that it had notified the government it would operate its plants under the government seizure order "as far as it may safely do so."

Many big companies had made no announcement at all.

Executives Ruffled

In this situation, the immediate outlook for continued production of the steel vital to defense industries and thousands of consumer products was confused and uncertain.

It was plain, however, that steel executives had their backs up. They were smarting under the tongue-lashing the President gave them in a radio broadcast last night and were disposed to fight for what they consider their rights.

At 11 a. m. (EST) Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer, designated to take over and operate the mills for the government, told reporters he had not received any acknowledgment from any of the presidents of 71 steel companies.

Sawyer sent each president a telegram last night, advising of the seizure order Truman had issued because of the deadlock in the wage dispute between the in-

Grunewald Is Cited for Contempt

Refused to Talk About His Connection With Big Tax Cases

Washington, April 9 (AP)—The House cited Henry W. (The Dutchman) Grunewald for contempt of Congress today for "willful and deliberate refusal" to talk about his mysterious connection with big money tax cases figuring in tax scandal investigations.

By a rollcall vote of 332 to 0, the House whipped through the contempt citation with a minimum of discussion and without a voice being raised in his behalf.

Grunewald was not present to hear the House refer his "contumacious conduct" to the United States attorney for prosecution.

He was at home under a doctor's care—too sick, his lawyer said, to appear before House investigators who voted to cite him for contempt last Jan. 30 after five attempts, on four separate occasions, to break his silence.

Grunewald, 59, whose reported friendships extend to the capitol and the White House, would face a year in jail and $1,000 fine if convicted on contempt of the House.

The legal procedure requires the House to refer the case to the United States attorney for prosecution if the subcommittee action is upheld.

Grunewald, cited after five stormy but futile attempts to crack his silence in the face of questions about his alleged role in big-money tax cases, was pictured in committee testimony as a man who dealt in large sums of cash, was a friend of senators, a man with some influence in White House circles, and one who found doors open to him in the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Red Cross to Help

Families suffering from the effects of the recent flood, and unable to meet their own needs, are urged by Disaster Chairman Walter T. Tremper to apply to the Red Cross, 308 Clinton avenue, this week for assistance.

Ancient Fire Cistern Found As Crossing Job Progresses

Spring weather is helping to step up work on city projects as well as that on the Broadway underpass, and as of today men were making progress on the rebuilding of sewer lines in the central section of the city.

Curbing is being biult on Cedar street in conjunction with the Broadway crossing project and workmen engaged on this job came upon one of the city's old fire cisterns at Cedar street and Broadway.

Cedar street is being widened as the new curbing is installed and the men were digging near one of the present curbs on the Cedar street side of Samuel's market when they came upon the cistern which had been built mostly under the sidewalk.

It is round in structure, built of brick and about 15 feet in diameter, and about 10 or 12 feet deep. Workmen of the local public works department came upon similar cisterns in the Wall and North Front street sections when the uptown streets were being rebuilt. They were used in the old days mainly to store water for fighting fires.

The sewer work in the central part of the city this week reached the Broadway and East Chester street intersection where a large excavation was dug in the center of the street.

The larger sewer line, which will increase facilities along a section of central Broadway, Staples, Brewster and Levan streets, will extend westward up Broadway to Staples street from East Chester street and into the other streets

Police Break Auto Window to Rescue Baby Locked In

A cop with a baseball bat scored for easier breathing uptown yesterday.

Several persons in the area and a baby, at least, breathed easier after Officer Walter Fitzgerald crashed the bat through the window of a car parked on Fair street.

Locked in the car, said a police report at 4:10 p. m., was a baby with a cloth over its face and the person who telephoned police headquarters said he feared the infant would smother.

Sgt. James Cullum dispatched Officers Fitzgerald and Frank Sammons to the car, which had been parked near the LeFever store. They reported that the mother had wrapped a bottle in a diaper and left it so the baby might reach the nipple.

Apparently part of the diaper had loosened and fell over the child's face, the report said.

Officer Fitzgerald obtained the bat from Potter Brothers sporting goods store at 294 Fair street, and after it was used, the officers reported, they "could see no danger of the baby smothering." The child's mother arrived just after the car window had been broken.

Daladier Can't Recall

Paris, April 9 (AP)—Former French Premier Edouard Daladier said today he did not recall talking with William C. Bullitt about "two brothers named Hiss" in the U. S. State Department. Daladier said he did not recall either the name of Hiss or a 1939 conversation with Bullitt, then U. S. ambassador to France, about any brothers in the State Department. Bullitt yesterday in Washington told the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee investigating subversive influences on American foreign policy that Daladier told him late in 1939 "two brothers named Hiss" in the State Department were Soviet agents.

Lethbridge, Alta. (AP)—When Mr. and Mrs. H. Reitman and their five youngsters, immigrants from Holland, arrived in Canada the first thing they did was unpack their house. Before leaving Holland, Reitman heard of Canada's housing shortage. He also knew it would be impossible to take over enough money to buy a house because of his country's foreign exchange controls. So he sold his house and bought a prefabricated house. It was shipped here via the Panama Canal. Reitman figures he brought his family here, along with their furniture and their new house, for less than $3,000.

DON'T BE AN AMATEUR MECHANIC

We never cease to wonder at the man who will rush the family car to the repair shop at the first sound of an engine sputter and call in the heating expert when the oil burner acts up, and yet when something goes wrong in his own, infinitely more complicated system, indulges in self-diagnosis and home remedy. A small sore on his lip . . . and he applies salve from the family medicine chest. When the sore refuses to heal, he blames it on the salve and buys another brand. Or maybe a mole that he's had since childhood starts changing in color or size. He studies it in his mirror while shaving, and decides it's "nothing to worry about. They say those things change as you get older."

His wife, who has the same respect for engines and machines and mechanical devices as her husband, sends the vacuum cleaner out for repairs when it begins to heat up. She pauses in her household chores to remember that she noticed a small lump in her breast while dressing, and reminds herself that she'd better look into it one of these days . . . that is, if it doesn't go away "soon."

Familiar? Alarmingly so . . . because these are symptoms that might mean cancer. They do mean an immediate visit to the doctor for prompt diagnosis and, if cancer is indicated, prompt treatment. The appalling loss of life to this, the nation's second chief killer, could be cut one-third today if men and women came to their physicians in time. The American Cancer Society lists the seven danger signals of cancer that call for prompt action on your part.

Any sore that does not heal.

A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.

Unusual bleeding or discharge.

Any change in a wart or mole.

Persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.

Persistent hoarseness or cough.

Any change in normal bowel habits.

An early visit to your doctor, when any one of these conditions is evident, might make the difference to you or your family or to relatives and friends between "cured" and "condemned." It's your job to know and act upon these danger signals. If you can't remember them, cut them out and paste them on the inside of your medicine cabinet.

At the first sign of any of these symptoms, take yourself down to the man who knows what to do about it — your doctor. Give yourself the same break you're giving your car or toaster or lawn-mower. And give to the 1952 Cancer Crusade of the American Cancer Society.

GOOD NEWS ABOUT CANCER

One of the top medical news stories of 1951 explained why male cancer deaths now surpass female for the first time since systematic statistical records have been kept.

Because two-thirds of the cancers that predominate in the male are not readily accessible to diagnosis and treatment, the cure rates for stomach and lung cancer and other hidden malignancies are modest. In accessible female sites like the breast and uterus the chances for cure are correspondingly higher. Thus the intensive educational campaign of the American Cancer Society has been getting better results with women than men.

The American Cancer Society is now trying to "zero in" its big research guns on hidden cancers. Some of the nation's best laboratory investigators are concentrating their efforts on finding a simple and reliable diagnostic test that will unmask cancer in elusive sites when the disease is in an early enough stage for cure.

The answer, or part of it, may be found in an extension of famed Dr. George N. Papanicolaou's successful technique of extracting "wet cells" from body sites and examining them microscopically for malignant changes. Or perhaps work with radio active tracers and specially-adapted Geiger counters may provide a solution.

Whatever the avenue, the American Cancer Society will continue the fight against one of mankind's oldest enemies just so long as the public continues to support this voluntary agency with its dollars. A generous contribution to the 1952 Cancer Crusade now is a sound investment in the future health of America.

'These Days'

STEVENSON ON HISS

When I listened to Governor Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois on "Meet the Press," I seemed to have had the impression that the governor was only asked by the court what others thought of Alger Hiss and that he replied to that.

So I went to the record. Governor Stevenson was interrogated by William B. Chittenden, United States Commissioner for the Southern District of Illinois, on June 2, 1949. This colloquy occurred:

"Q. No. 4 How long have you known Mr. Alger Hiss, the defendant?

"A. No. 4 Since June or July, 1933.

"Q. No. 5 Where, when and under what circumstances did you first become acquainted with him?

"A. No. 5 We served together in the legal division of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in Washington in 1933."

Then Governor Stevenson said:

"A. No. 6 In the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in 1933 we were working on different commodities. Our contact was frequent but not close nor daily. I had no further contact with him until I met him again in the State Department when I went to work there in 1945. Upon my arrival in the State Department at the end of February or early March to the end of April, when Mr. Hiss left for the San Francisco conference, he was, I think, largely preoccupied with the arrangements for that conference, for the United Nations Conference on International Organization at San Francisco. During the interval, from the first of March to the end of April, I was engaged in other matters and met him mostly in intro-departmental meetings and in connection with some aspects of the plan for the San Francisco conference, largely relating to matters pertaining to the handling of the press at the conference. I was at the conference, myself, as assistant to the secretary of state from about the 10th of May until the end of June. During that interval Mr. Hiss was secretary general of the conference and I was attached to the United States delegation. Our paths did not cross in a business way but we met occasionally at official social functions.

"Back in Washington during July, I had some conferences with him in connection with preparations for the presentation of the United Nations charter to the Senate for ratification.

"I resigned from the department early in August, 1945, and so far as I recall I did not meet Mr. Hiss personally again until he came to London in January, 1946. . . . During that conference in January and February we had offices nearby each other and met frequently at delegation meetings and staff conferences.

"I returned to the United States in March, 1946, and I do not believe I met Mr. Hiss again until the United Nations General Assembly in New York in 1947. At that time he was connected with the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and I visited with him on one or two occasions at my office in the United States delegation headquarters in connection with the budget for the United Nations, which was one of my responsibilities as a member of the American delegation. I have not seen him since."

This is the extent of Governor Stevenson's knowledge of Alger Hiss. However, he was asked other questions which had nothing to do with other person's opinions of Alger Hiss. He was asked and he answered as follows:

"Q. No. 3 Did you, prior to 1948, hear that the defendant Alger Hiss during the years 1937 and 1938 removed confidential and secret documents from the State Department and made such documents available to persons not authorized to see or receive them?

"A. No. 3 No.

"Q. No. 4 Did you, prior to 1948, hear reports that the defendant Alger Hiss was a Communist?

"A. No. 4 No.

"Q. No. 5 Did you, prior to 1948, hear reports that the defendant Alger Hiss was a Communist sympathizer?

"A. No. 5 No."

I am sure that all this is very different from what I heard on the television show, "Meet the Press." However, the time gave out as the governor was discussing this question and maybe he would have explained it differently, or maybe, like Owen Lattimore, he forgot. It seems to me that this deposition requires publication because of Governor Stevenson's prominence as a candidate.

That Body of Yours

ATHLETICS AND THE HEART

In lecturing to a group of Public Health nurses some years ago, I remarked that, so well do the heart and lungs work together, in examining thousands of athletes yearly, I never found a normal heart that failed during exercise or a game. One of the nurses knew of a case of a boxer who had collapsed and died during a bout. I asked her to bring the particulars to the next lecture. She brought the information that the boy had died while watching a boxing match.

In the magazine "Esquire," some months ago, George Mann in an article, Your Heart's Not Too Big, stated, "The disease called athlete's heart does not exist." Though some athletes have big hearts, this is not the usual condition as prolonged athletics such as boxing, often finds a normal or even a small heart present. It doesn't have to be large, the exercise has increased the power of the heart and this heart does more work than the average because its muscle power is greater.

What about athletics and the life span? Some years ago the oarsmen who had rowed for Yale during their university days were found to have a longer life span, and be in better physical condition, than the students who had not engaged in athletics. This may easily be explained by the fact that the individual who engages in ahletics is much more likely to be stronger physically than one who does not do so. Thus statistics show that athletes live longer than non-athletes.

"Exercise cannot strain a naturally normal heart. In fact, a system of graded exercise designed to improve the working ability of damaged hearts is being developed by heart specialists," Mr. Mann writes. As a matter of fact, what is known as the Schott method of exercise in which an attendant had the patient push arms and legs against his resistance was in use for many years, but more recently has not been used generally.

"In general, athletes have slower heart beats than non-athletes and the slower the pulse, the more efficient the heart."

In examining Johnny Dundee, the boxer, who had fought over 300 bouts, I found his heart beating only 56 to 60, instead of the average 72.

Don't We Get Into the Queerest Predicaments?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—This column has obtained a copy of the so-called "Newbold Morris" questionnaire which caused one cabinet member to be kicked out, one cleanup man to fired, and generally created more furor than Washington has seen since the Korean war.

The questionnaire is similar to that sent to the Washington, D. C., police and the New York police. It was OK'd by the President. Nevertheless, most of the cabinet demurred against filling it out—two of them, Secretary of Defense Lovett and Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, vigorously. They called ot an insult to their integrity.

Furthermore, Attorney General McGrath, at the next to the last cabinet meeting he attended, virtually proposed that the questionnaires be junked.

"I'm still holding that stack of questionnaires Newbold Morris wants to send out," McGrath said, in substance. "I don't think we should send them out. They're an insult to everyone in government."

The President suggested that McGrath wait until the following week and take the matter up with him direct. Truman did not say so, but Morris had brought the questionnaire over for his personal inspection, and the President gave it his blessing.

Following the cabinet meeting, and without conferring with the President again, McGrath made his now famous statement to a House committee that he himself might not sign the questionnaire.

Newbold's Quiz Program

The Newbold Morris quiz-sheet which caused McGrath's exit from the cabinet starts out with some innocuous questions about names of wife, children, amount earned by wife, amount earned by children. Then question 9 begins to get down to brass tacks. It asks for a list of assets on the date the official entered the government, with a list of assets today.

This list of assets is spelled out under "cash—in banks and elsewhere; automobiles; stocks, bonds, real estate, furs, jewelry, household effects," etc.

Under this question, McGrath would have had to list his partnership in O'Keefe Motors in Providence, R. I., a Dodge-Plymouth agency. Since most auto dealers have made a lot since the war, presumably McGrath's assets would have increased considerably.

The ex-attorney general might also have had to list his interest in Textron, a tax-free foundation manufacturing textiles, which was investigated by the Senate and from which he received an annual salary of $15,000. It is understood that he resigned from this after entering the Justice Department, though he had drawn the salary while in other government positions and while Textron's tax exemption was under consideration in the Treasury Department.

Section B of Question 9 gets down to details which might worry some officials. It asks if any assets are held under "a fictitious name or through a nominee, trustee, or escrow agent."

Question 11 directs: "List all bank accounts, such as savings, checking, trust, postal savings, Christmas club, building and loan account of yourself and family," including those held under fictitious names.

Strongboxes

Question 12 reads: "List all safe-deposit boxes held during the past five years . . . in your name, your wife's name, or in the name of any member of the immediate family," plus all safe-deposit boxes held under fictitious names.

No. 14 goes into employment outside the government, including legal fees. Under this question it is necessary to fill out three pages listing companies from whom fees were received.

Under this, McGrath would have had to list the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Providence which he helped establish. His brother now runs it.

No. 15 merely asks routine information about filing income-tax returns, but No. 16 asks government officials to list any gifts exceeding $250 in value; while No. 17 asks whether the official has ever been associated in a private or business manner with an exconvict.

Question 18 will hit government officials who are race-track fans. "Have you won or lost any sums of money in excess of $500 in any form of gambling during the past four years?" Morris queried.

The man who fired him, Howard McGrath, was no gambler—aside from possible election bets—but he did own part of the Lincoln Downs race track in Rhode Island which subsisted on legal betting.

Question 19 might be embarrassing for some people. It reads: "Have you or any member of your family during the entire period of your federal employment received any gift or compensation or promise thereof from any person, firm, or corporation for aiding any dealings with any agency of the federal government?" There follows space for listing each gift and the person giving it.

Question 20 asks whether any cash over $500 is, or has been, around the homes or persons of government officials.

Question 21 gets to the root of one of the dodges of some officials—setting up law firms to handle government business and do lobbying favors which they themselves can't do publicly.

The two next questions inquire about commissions or brokerage fees received from outsiders; or any type of compensation for the referral of business.

The last question asks for details on any brokerage accounts carried in the government official's name, or that of his wife, member of family, or fictitious name. This would have hit ex-Sen. Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma when he operated various brokerage accounts in his wife's name and other names to cover up his speculating on the commodity market.

The answers have to be sworn to before a notary.

This is the document which made apparently strong and virile men blanch and resign; the document which now is left in the lap of new Attorney General Jim McGranery. "To send or not to send?"—That will be Jim's big question.

United States Sea Power Considered in Peril if House Bars Super-Carrier

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 8—American seapower—which today is primarily airpower from the decks of floating bases—is about to be seriously impaired.

It isn't because of economy. It isn't an edict from the President. It isn't any inter-service friction, for the members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff no longer seek to cut each other's budgets. It is something mysterious that is happening in the House of Representatives behind the scenes.

For the United States Navy offered to take any other equivalent cut in funds selected by the committees in Congress if it could only preserve the appropriation it sought for the second large aircraft carrier of the Forrestal class.

The principle is one of basic importance to the security of the nation. When the military officials of the government—the men whose life work it is to devise ways and means of defending the country—put the highest priority on a certain type of weapon or instrument of defense, should such an item be voted down or should each armed service be permitted to take the lump sum given it by Congress and make the best use of it that it can for the defense of the nation?

About $12,000,000,000 or thereabouts will be appropriated for the Navy, and there was one item in it amounting to less than 2 per cent of that total which was sought by the Navy to start the second of its series of large aircraft carriers. The Navy even offered to cease work on other ships and make an immediate economy of exactly the same sum—$209,000,000—but, for some reason not explained, this did not appeal to certain members of Congress who have suddenly declared opposition to this second carrier.

It means a reversal of the position taken many months ago by various members of the House Armed Services Committee—a reversal that in some respects endangers the security of the United States in the world far more than perhaps was realized by those congressmen who are now scuttling the project.

The best explanation of why the aircraft carriers are needed is to read the record of what is happening in the attempt of the United States at a cost of many billions of dollars to build land bases in North Africa. Those are fixed bases and, any day that a revolution arises in the countries which have given permission to construct the bases, the United States is at the mercy of new factions and new governments.

The case for floating bases was set forth on Nov. 20, 1951, in a speech in New York city by the present chief of naval operations, Admiral Fechteler, when he said:

"The Navy has the capability of delivering an atomic bomb, or many atomic bombs, from a point anywhere on the 70 per cent of the earth's surface covered by water to a target within the radius of action of carrier-based planes, a distance of some 600 nautical miles."

But even more pertinent is the statement made in another speech by Admiral Fechteler on March 7 of this year in Chicago, when he said:

"The modern aircraft carrier is much more than a mere vessel at sea. It is a highly mobile, highly defensible, highly self-sufficient airfield which can be moved at 40 miles per hour to any part of the earth's surface where there will be water under the keel. And from any such point it can launch its attack.

"These things it can do from the international waters of the high seas without resort to diplomatic channels. The use of carriers is not hampered by any restrictive promise made to a foreign power in exchange for base rights on foreign soil. Nor will the vagaries of the political complexion of any ally change or affect our ability to use carriers at will.

"No treaty rights need precede the use of carrier air power. The carrier's employment is completely unmolested by the changing fortunes of foreign political situations.

"If you will take a chart of the world and draw upon the earth's land masses a line which is 600 miles from the sea, you will have a picture of the range to which naval power can be extended over the land. You will be surprised, I think, to observe the concentration of important spots and areas of the world which lie within the range of carrier air power.

"You will note that the continent of Europe is in reality only a peninsula. The space between the Black Sea and the Baltic is only 750 miles wide — no more than about twice the length of the northern Korean border.

"The current hostilities in Korea occur upon a peninsula. Many other possible threats to world peace exist in peninsula areas—such as Indo-China and Malaya."

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Stories from olden times in Ulster county are sometimes difficult to find. In the "Catskill Mts." by Rev. Charles Rockwell there are a few sprinkled here and there which interested me. This book published back in 1867 tells about the Dubois family which was near becoming extinct in Ulster county. It seems at the time of this story, there was but one family of that name in New Paltz. This family had seven daughters but only one son. Also, there was no church nearer than Kingston, a distance of some 16 miles, children had to be taken way out to Kingston to be baptized.

The Rev. Mr. Rockwell goes on to say, that as the father and mother of this only son (name of son not given) "were returning from his baptism, their team and sleigh, in crossing the creek, broke through the ice, and they, with their horses were drowned, the mother having had a chance to throw her infant on a floating cake of ice, from which the baby was rescued and its life saved." They do not say who saved him or what happened to the baby but just that he lived through that ordeal in his infancy. Whom did he marry, and who were his children the author also does not tell. Many of the stories are like that. Then the author goes on to tell about an entirely different family, so it seems thus: "In 1744, Johannes Decker, of Shawangunk, while going or returning from the baptism of his child, was lost, with his horses and a Negro who came to help him, his horses having broken through the ice—while his wife and child were saved." Nothing further explained.

The Rev. Mr. Rockwell writes following about Chambers: "May 21, 1667, the Fox Hall Patent to a large tract of land in the south part of Ulster county, discovered during the Indian War of 1663, was issued to Thomas Chambers, who had been active in that war. He had before lived on a tract of land where Troy now is, which he had rented from the Patroon, Van Rensselaer. He removed to Esopus in 1652, where he acquired a large estate which he tried to entail by will to his family, but it passed out of their possession before the Revolutionary War."

He goes on further to tell: "During the Revolutionary War, the out-settlements in Ulster county were much exposed to attacks by the Indians, and were most of them destroyed or abandoned. The towns on the river, too, were all taken by the British; and in 1777, most of them were pillaged and burned. General Vaughan, with a force of 3,000 men, was sent up the river with a view to aid General Burgoyne. For 10 days after passing the Highlands, his troops were employed in plundering and burning the towns they took. October 17th, after plundering Kingston several hours, they burned every house in it but one. These houses, however, like most of those early built by the Dutch, in the valley of the Hudson, had strong, thick walls of stone, so that they suffered but little from fire, and their woodwork was easily replaced. . . . When Kingston was burned, it was the third town in the state in size, elegance, and wealth, New York and Albany alone being in advance of it." It seems that New York held its own through these hundreds of years and so did Albany because of it being a capital, but Kingston somehow lost its third place forever.

His wife, who has the same respect for engines and machines and mechanical devices as her husband, sends the vacuum cleaner out for repairs when it begins to heat up. She pauses in her household chores to remember that she noticed a small lump in her breast while dressing, and reminds herself that she'd better look into it one of these days . . . that is, if it doesn't go away "soon."

Familiar? Alarmingly so . . . because these are symptoms that might mean cancer. They do mean an immediate visit to the doctor for prompt diagnosis and, if cancer is indicated, prompt treatment. The appalling loss of life to this, the nation's second chief killer, could be cut one-third today if men and women came to their physicians in time. The American Cancer Society lists the seven danger signals of cancer that call for prompt action on your part.

Any sore that does not heal.

A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.

Unusual bleeding or discharge.

Any change in a wart or mole.

Persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.

Persistent hoarseness or cough.

Any change in normal bowel habits.

An early visit to your doctor, when any one of these conditions is evident, might make the difference to you or your family or to relatives and friends between "cured" and "condemned." It's your job to know and act upon these danger signals. If you can't remember them, cut them out and paste them on the inside of your medicine cabinet.

At the first sign of any of these symptoms, take yourself down to the man who knows what to do about it — your doctor. Give yourself the same break you're giving your car or toaster or lawn-mower. And give to the 1952 Cancer Crusade of the American Cancer Society.

GOOD NEWS ABOUT CANCER

One of the top medical news stories of 1951 explained why male cancer deaths now surpass female for the first time since systematic statistical records have been kept.

Because two-thirds of the cancers that predominate in the male are not readily accessible to diagnosis and treatment, the cure rates for stomach and lung cancer and other hidden malignancies are modest. In accessible female sites like the breast and uterus the chances for cure are correspondingly higher. Thus the intensive educational campaign of the American Cancer Society has been getting better results with women than men.

The American Cancer Society is now trying to "zero in" its big research guns on hidden cancers. Some of the nation's best laboratory investigators are concentrating their efforts on finding a simple and reliable diagnostic test that will unmask cancer in elusive sites when the disease is in an early enough stage for cure.

The answer, or part of it, may be found in an extension of famed Dr. George N. Papanicolaou's successful technique of extracting "wet cells" from body sites and examining them microscopically for malignant changes. Or perhaps work with radio active tracers and specially-adapted Geiger counters may provide a solution.

Whatever the avenue, the American Cancer Society will continue the fight against one of mankind's oldest enemies just so long as the public continues to support this voluntary agency with its dollars. A generous contribution to the 1952 Cancer Crusade now is a sound investment in the future health of America.

STEVENSON ON HISS

When I listened to Governor Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois on "Meet the Press," I seemed to have had the impression that the governor was only asked by the court what others thought of Alger Hiss and that he replied to that.

So I went to the record. Governor Stevenson was interrogated by William B. Chittenden, United States Commissioner for the Southern District of Illinois, on June 2, 1949. This colloquy occurred:

"Q. No. 4 How long have you known Mr. Alger Hiss, the defendant?

"A. No. 4 Since June or July, 1933.

"Q. No. 5 Where, when and under what circumstances did you first become acquainted with him?

"A. No. 5 We served together in the legal division of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in Washington in 1933."

Then Governor Stevenson said:

"A. No. 6 In the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in 1933 we were working on different commodities. Our contact was frequent but not close nor daily. I had no further contact with him until I met him again in the State Department when I went to work there in 1945. Upon my arrival in the State Department at the end of February or early March to the end of April, when Mr. Hiss left for the San Francisco conference, he was, I think, largely preoccupied with the arrangements for that conference, for the United Nations Conference on International Organization at San Francisco. During the interval, from the first of March to the end of April, I was engaged in other matters and met him mostly in intro-departmental meetings and in connection with some aspects of the plan for the San Francisco conference, largely relating to matters pertaining to the handling of the press at the conference. I was at the conference, myself, as assistant to the secretary of state from about the 10th of May until the end of June. During that interval Mr. Hiss was secretary general of the conference and I was attached to the United States delegation. Our paths did not cross in a business way but we met occasionally at official social functions.

"Back in Washington during July, I had some conferences with him in connection with preparations for the presentation of the United Nations charter to the Senate for ratification.

"I resigned from the department early in August, 1945, and so far as I recall I did not meet Mr. Hiss personally again until he came to London in January, 1946. . . . During that conference in January and February we had offices nearby each other and met frequently at delegation meetings and staff conferences.

"I returned to the United States in March, 1946, and I do not believe I met Mr. Hiss again until the United Nations General Assembly in New York in 1947. At that time he was connected with the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and I visited with him on one or two occasions at my office in the United States delegation headquarters in connection with the budget for the United Nations, which was one of my responsibilities as a member of the American delegation. I have not seen him since."

This is the extent of Governor Stevenson's knowledge of Alger Hiss. However, he was asked other questions which had nothing to do with other person's opinions of Alger Hiss. He was asked and he answered as follows:

"Q. No. 3 Did you, prior to 1948, hear that the defendant Alger Hiss during the years 1937 and 1938 removed confidential and secret documents from the State Department and made such documents available to persons not authorized to see or receive them?

"A. No. 3 No.

"Q. No. 4 Did you, prior to 1948, hear reports that the defendant Alger Hiss was a Communist?

"A. No. 4 No.

"Q. No. 5 Did you, prior to 1948, hear reports that the defendant Alger Hiss was a Communist sympathizer?

"A. No. 5 No."

I am sure that all this is very different from what I heard on the television show, "Meet the Press." However, the time gave out as the governor was discussing this question and maybe he would have explained it differently, or maybe, like Owen Lattimore, he forgot. It seems to me that this deposition requires publication because of Governor Stevenson's prominence as a candidate.

That Body of Yours

ATHLETICS AND THE HEART

In lecturing to a group of Public Health nurses some years ago, I remarked that, so well do the heart and lungs work together, in examining thousands of athletes yearly, I never found a normal heart that failed during exercise or a game. One of the nurses knew of a case of a boxer who had collapsed and died during a bout. I asked her to bring the particulars to the next lecture. She brought the information that the boy had died while watching a boxing match.

In the magazine "Esquire," some months ago, George Mann in an article, Your Heart's Not Too Big, stated, "The disease called athlete's heart does not exist." Though some athletes have big hearts, this is not the usual condition as prolonged athletics such as boxing, often finds a normal or even a small heart present. It doesn't have to be large, the exercise has increased the power of the heart and this heart does more work than the average because its muscle power is greater.

What about athletics and the life span? Some years ago the oarsmen who had rowed for Yale during their university days were found to have a longer life span, and be in better physical condition, than the students who had not engaged in athletics. This may easily be explained by the fact that the individual who engages in ahletics is much more likely to be stronger physically than one who does not do so. Thus statistics show that athletes live longer than non-athletes.

"Exercise cannot strain a naturally normal heart. In fact, a system of graded exercise designed to improve the working ability of damaged hearts is being developed by heart specialists," Mr. Mann writes. As a matter of fact, what is known as the Schott method of exercise in which an attendant had the patient push arms and legs against his resistance was in use for many years, but more recently has not been used generally.

"In general, athletes have slower heart beats than non-athletes and the slower the pulse, the more efficient the heart."

In examining Johnny Dundee, the boxer, who had fought over 300 bouts, I found his heart beating only 56 to 60, instead of the average 72.

Don't We Get Into the Queerest Predicaments?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—This column has obtained a copy of the so-called "Newbold Morris" questionnaire which caused one cabinet member to be kicked out, one cleanup man to fired, and generally created more furor than Washington has seen since the Korean war.

The questlonnaire is similar to that sent to the Washington, D. C., police and the New York police. It was OK'd by the President. Nevertheless, most of the cabinet demurred against filling it out—two of them, Secretary of Defense Lovett and Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, vigorously. They called ot an insult to their integrity.

Furthermore, Attorney General McGrath, at the next to the last cabinet meeting he attended, virtually proposed that the questionnaires be junked.

"I'm still holding that stack of questionnaires Newbold Morris wants to send out," McGrath said, in substance. "I don't think we should send them out. They're an insult to everyone in government."

The President suggested that McGrath wait until the following week and take the matter up with him direct. Truman did not say so, but Morris had brought the questionnaire over for his personal inspection, and the President gave it his blessing.

Following the cabinet meeting, and without conferring with the President again, McGrath made his now famous statement to a House committee that he himself might not sign the questionnaire.

Newbold's Quiz Program

The Newbold Morris quiz-sheet which caused McGrath's exit from the cabinet starts out with some innocuous questions about names of wife, children, amount earned by wife, amount earned by children. Then question 9 begins to get down to brass tacks. It asks for a list of assets on the date the official entered the government, with a list of assets today.

This list of assets is spelled out under "cash—in banks and elsewhere; automobiles; stocks, bonds, real estate, furs, jewelry, household effects," etc.

Under this question, McGrath would have had to list his partnership in O'Keefe Motors in Providence, R. I., a Dodge-Plymouth agency. Since most auto dealers have made a lot since the war, presumably McGrath's assets would have increased considerably.

The ex-attorney general might also have had to list his interest in Textron, a tax-free foundation manufacturing textiles, which was investigated by the Senate and from which he received an annual salary of $15,000. It is understood that he resigned from this after entering the Justice Department, though he had drawn the salary while in other government positions and while Textron's tax exemption was under consideration in the Treasury Department.

Section B of Question 9 gets down to details which might worry some officials. It asks if any assets are held under "a fictitious name or through a nominee, trustee, or escrow agent."

Question 11 directs: "List all bank accounts, such as savings, checking, trust, postal savings, Christmas club, building and loan account of yourself and family," including those held under fictitious names.

Strongboxes

Question 12 reads: "List all safe-deposit boxes held during the past five years . . . in your name, your wife's name, or in the name of any member of the immediate family," plus all safe-deposit boxes held under fictitious names.

No. 14 goes into employment outside the government, including legal fees. Under this question it is necessary to fill out three pages listing companies from whom fees were received.

Under this, McGrath would have had to list the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Providence which he helped establish. His brother now runs it.

No. 15 merely asks routine information about filing income-tax returns, but No. 16 asks government officials to list any gifts exceeding $250 in value; while No. 17 asks whether the official has ever been associated in a private or business manner with an ex-convict.

Question 18 will hit government officials who are race-track fans. "Have you won or lost any sums of money in excess of $500 in any form of gambling during the past four years?" Morris queried.

The man who fired him, Howard McGrath, was no gambler—aside from possible election bets—but he did own part of the Lincoln Downs race track in Rhode Island which subsisted on legal betting.

Question 19 might be embarrassing for some people. It reads: "Have you or any member of your family during the entire period of your federal employment received any gift or compensation or promise thereof from any person, firm, or corporation for aiding any dealings with any agency of the federal government?" There follows space for listing each gift and the person giving it.

Question 20 asks whether any cash over $500 is, or has been, around the homes or persons of government officials.

Question 21 gets to the root of one of the dodges of some officials—setting up law firms to handle government business and do lobbying favors which they themselves can't do publicly.

The two next questions inquire about commissions or brokerage fees received from outsiders; or any type of compensation for the referral of business.

The last question asks for details on any brokerage accounts carried in the government official's name, or that of his wife, member of family, or fictitious name. This would have hit ex-Sen. Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma when he operated various brokerage accounts in his wife's name and other names to cover up his speculating on the commodity market.

The answers have to be sworn to before a notary.

This is the document which made apparently strong and virile men blanch and resign; the document which now is left in the lap of new Attorney General Jim McGranery. "To send or not to send?"—That will be Jim's big question.

United States Sea Power Considered in Peril if House Bars Super-Carrier

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 8—American seapower—which today is primarily airpower from the decks of floating bases—is about to be seriously impaired.

It isn't because of economy. It isn't an edict from the President. It isn't any inter-service friction, for the members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff no longer seek to cut each other's budgets. It is something mysterious that is happening in the House of Representatives behind the scenes.

For the United States Navy offered to take any other equivalent cut in funds selected by the committees in Congress if it could only preserve the appropriation it sought for the second large aircraft carrier of the Forrestal class.

The principle is one of basic importance to the security of the nation. When the military officials of the government—the men whose life work it is to devise ways and means of defending the country—put the highest priority on a certain type of weapon or instrument of defense, should such an item be voted down or should each armed service be permitted to take the lump sum given it by Congress and make the best use of it that it can for the defense of the nation?

About $12,000,000,000 or thereabouts will be appropriated for the Navy, and there was one item in it amounting to less than 2 per cent of that total which was sought by the Navy to start the second of its series of large aircraft carriers. The Navy even offered to cease work on other ships and make an immediate economy of exactly the same sum—$209,000,000—but, for some reason not explained, this did not appeal to certain members of Congress who have suddenly declared opposition to this second carrier.

It means a reversal of the position taken many months ago by various members of the House Armed Services Committee—a reversal that in some respects endangers the security of the United States in the world far more than perhaps was realized by those congressmen who are now scuttling the project.

The best explanation of why the aircraft carriers are needed is to read the record of what is happening in the attempt of the United States at a cost of many billions of dollars to build land bases in North Africa. Those are fixed bases and, any day that a revolution arises in the countries which have given permission to construct the bases, the United States is at the mercy of new factions and new governments.

The case for floating bases was set forth on Nov. 20, 1951, in a speech in New York city by the present chief of naval operations, Admiral Fechteler, when he said:

"The Navy has the capability of delivering an atomic bomb, or many atomic bombs, from a point anywhere on the 70 per cent of the earth's surface covered by water to a target within the radius of action of carrier-based planes, a distance of some 600 nautical miles."

But even more pertinent is the statement made in another speech by Admiral Fechteler on March 7 of this year in Chicago, when he said:

"The modern aircraft carrier is much more than a mere vessel at sea. It is a highly mobile, highly defensible, highly self-sufficient airfield which can be moved at 40 miles per hour to any part of the earth's surface where there will be water under the keel. And from any such point it can launch its attack.

"These things it can do from the international waters of the high seas without resort to diplomatic channels. The use of carriers is not hampered by any restrictive promise made to a foreign power in exchange for base rights on foreign soil. Nor will the vagaries of the political complexion of any ally change or affect our ability to use carriers at will.

"No treaty rights need precede the use of carrier air power. The carrier's employment is completely unmolested by the changing fortunes of foreign political situations.

"If you will take a chart of the world and draw upon the earth's land masses a line which is 600 miles from the sea, you will have a picture of the range to which naval power can be extended over the land. You will be surprised, I think, to observe the concentration of important spots and areas of the world which lie within the range of carrier air power.

"You will note that the continent of Europe is in reality only a peninsula. The space between the Black Sea and the Baltic is only 750 miles wide — no more than about twice the length of the northern Korean border.

"The current hostilities in Korea occur upon a peninsula. Many other possible threats to world peace exist in peninsula areas—such as Indo-China and Malaya."

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Stories from olden times in Ulster county are sometimes difficult to find. In the "Catskill Mts." by Rev. Charles Rockwell there are a few sprinkled here and there which interested me. This book published back in 1867 tells about the Dubois family which was near becoming extinct in Ulster county. It seems at the time of this story, there was but one family of that name in New Paltz. This family had seven daughters but only one son. Also, there was no church nearer than Kingston, a distance of some 16 miles, children had to be taken way out to Kingston to be baptized.

The Rev. Mr. Rockwell goes on to say, that as the father and mother of this only son (name of son not given) "were returning from his baptism, their team and sleigh, in crossing the creek, broke through the ice, and they, with their horses were drowned, the mother having had a chance to throw her infant on a floating cake of ice, from which the baby was rescued and its life saved." They do not say who saved him or what happened to the baby but just that he lived through that ordeal in his infancy. Whom did he marry, and who were his children the author also does not tell. Many of the stories are like that. Then the author goes on to tell about an entirely different family, so it seems thus: "In 1744, Johannes Decker, of Shawangunk, while going or returning from the baptism of his child, was lost, with his horses and a Negro who came to help him, his horses having broken through the ice—while his wife and child were saved." Nothing further explained.

The Rev. Mr. Rockwell writes following about Chambers: "May 21, 1667, the Fox Hall Patent to a large tract of land in the south part of Ulster county, discovered during the Indian War of 1663, was issued to Thomas Chambers, who had been active in that war. He had before lived on a tract of land where Troy now is, which he had rented from the Patroon, Van Rensselaer. He removed to Esopus in 1652, where he acquired a large estate which he tried to entail by will to his family, but it passed out of their possession before the Revolutionary War."

He goes on further to tell: "During the Revolutionary War, the out-settlements in Ulster county were much exposed to attacks by the Indians, and were most of them destroyed or abandoned. The towns on the river, too, were all taken by the British; and in 1777, most of them were pillaged and burned. General Vaughan, with a force of 3,000 men, was sent up the river with a view to aid General Burgoyne. For 10 days after passing the Highlands, his troops were employed in plundering and burning the towns they took. October 17th, after plundering Kingston several hours, they burned every house in it but one. These houses, however, like most of those early built by the Dutch, in the valley of the Hudson, had strong, thick walls of stone, so that they suffered but little from fire, and their woodwork was easily replaced. . . . When Kingston was burned, it was the third town in the state in size, elegance, and wealth, New York and Albany alone being in advance of it." It seems that New York held its own through these hundreds of years and so did Albany because of it being a capital, but Kingston somehow lost its third place forever.

Kingston Academy Class of Year 1915 To Hold Reunion

The Class of 1915 of old Kingston Academy, which was the last class of this celebrated institution that was established here in 1724, will hold a reunion in connection with the observance of Kingston's 300th Anniversary.

The reunion will be held on July 26, 1952 at a luncheon at the Y.W.C.A. at which time the graduates and their families will attend. During the afternoon a reception will be held for all the graduates of Kingston Academy. A number of the faculty also is expected to be present at the reception.

Officers of the Class of 1915 are William Anderson Carl, president; Marietta Riseley, vice president; Edith Fiero, secretary; Raymond Craft, treasurer.

The committee working on the reunion is comprised of the following: William A. Carl, Ruth Bushnell Brinnier, Raymond E. Craft, Helen Elmendorf Partlan, Harry duBois Frey, Lena Harford Randall, Arpha Lawson Craft, Dorothy Leighton Dumond, Ella Matthews Arnold, Elizabeth V. Palen, Willis N. Ryder, Watson Wheeler and Esther Wood.

The committee has located most of the members of the class, but would appreciate any additional information about any member of the class.

It is planned during the reunion to re-enact some of the Class Day and Commencement programs.

The class feels particularly honored being the last class to graduate from the oldest academy in the state. Governor Dewey in his proclamation declaring the Year 1952 as Kingston Tercentenary Year noted that Kingston Academy was New York State's first academy.

Test Your Ingenuity; Figure Correct Play

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When today's hand was played in a team match, both South players reached a contract of four hearts. One declarer found a subtle but simple way to make his contract.

In both rooms West opened the nine of spades. East won with the ace and returned a spade, hoping West could ruff. Dummy won with the king of spades, and declarer drew trumps with the ace and jack. He next led the deuce of diamonds from dummy, East played low, and South won with the king of diamonds.

Up to this point the play in both rooms was identical, but here the two declarers parted company. Decide for yourself how you would have continued—assuming that you could not see the hands of the defenders.

In the first room South led his remaining diamond and put up dummy's jack. East took the ace of diamonds and desperately returned the king of clubs—and South found he had to lose two club tricks no matter how he squirmed.

In the second room declarer thought more carefully about the diamonds and clubs. It would do him no good to set up just one of dummy's diamonds. That would enable him to discard only one club from his hand, which would still leave him with two losing clubs.

It would do him no harm to set up no diamonds at all in dummy. The club situation would remain unchanged by bad luck in diamonds.

It would make a difference, however, if he could somehow set up both of dummy's diamond picture cards. In short, he needed two further diamond tricks and it could cost him nothing to try for them.

Since there was only one chance, South led his remaining diamond and played low from the dummy. East had to play the ace, exactly as declarer had hoped, and now the game was in the bag.

East returned the king of clubs, but South won with the ace, entered dummy with a trump, and discarded two clubs on the queen and jack of diamonds. He could then cheerfully give up one club trick.

Passover in New Land

Jerusalem, April 9 (AP)—Special emphasis will be placed tonight on Israel's 700,000 immigrants as the Jewish Passover is ushered in with solemn prayer and traditional ceremonies. The newcomers have more than doubled the Jewish population since Israel became a state in 1948. The continuing policy of making Israel a haven for Jewish exiles is being stressed by religious and government leaders as Jews everywhere celebrate their liberation from Egyptian bondage 3,500 years ago. About 50 per cent of the immigrants have come from Europe, the rest from Asia and North Africa. A total of 297,000 arrived from Iron Curtain countries.

Kingston Academy Class of Year 1915 To Hold Reunion

The Class of 1915 of old Kingston Academy, which was the last class of this celebrated institution that was established here in 1724, will hold a reunion in connection with the observance of Kingston's 300th Anniversary.

The reunion will be held on July 26, 1952 at a luncheon at the Y.W.C.A. at which time the graduates and their families will attend. During the afternoon a reception will be held for all the graduates of Kingston Academy. A number of the faculty also is expected to be present at the reception.

Officers of the Class of 1915 are William Anderson Carl, president; Marietta Riseley, vice president; Edith Fiero, secretary; Raymond Craft, treasurer.

The committee working on the reunion is comprised of the following: William A. Carl, Ruth Bushnell Brinnier, Raymond E. Craft, Helen Elmendorf Partlan, Harry duBois Frey, Lena Harford Randall, Arpha Lawson Craft, Dorothy Leighton Dumond, Ella Matthews Arnold, Elizabeth V. Palen, Willis N. Ryder, Watson Wheeler and Esther Wood.

The committee has located most of the members of the class, but would appreciate any additional information about any member of the class.

It is planned during the reunion to re-enact some of the Class Day and Commencement programs.

The class feels particularly honored being the last class to graduate from the oldest academy in the state. Governor Dewey in his proclamation declaring the Year 1952 as Kingston Tercentenary Year noted that Kingston Academy was New York State's first academy.

Blames Taft, Truman

Newark, N. J., April 9 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen, one of the three Republican candidates for presidential nomination in the New Jersey primary, says Sen. Robert A. Taft is "almost always wrong on big issues of American foreign policy." The sole Republican presidential aspirant to make personal appeals for New Jersey primary votes, Stassen launched his statewide tour last night with a speech in Summit. Listed on the GOP ballot in the state's April 15 primary, in addition to Stassen, are Taft and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. In his talk at a Summit high school rally, Stassen blamed Taft and President Truman for "leading our foreign policy astray."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Test Your Ingenuity; Figure Correct Play

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When today's hand was played in a team match, both South players reached a contract of four hearts. One declarer found a subtle but simple way to make his contract.

In both rooms West opened the nine of spades. East won with the ace and returned a spade, hoping West could ruff. Dummy won with the king of spades, and declarer drew trumps with the ace and jack. He next led the deuce of diamonds from dummy, East played low, and South won with the king of diamonds.

Up to this point the play in both rooms was identical, but here the two declarers parted company. Decide for yourself how you would have continued—assuming that you could not see the hands of the defenders.

In the first room South led his remaining diamond and put up dummy's jack. East took the ace of diamonds and desperately returned the king of clubs—and South found he had to lose two club tricks no matter how he squirmed.

In the second room declarer thought more carefully about the diamonds and clubs. It would do him no good to set up just one of dummy's diamonds. That would enable him to discard only one club from his hand, which would still leave him with two losing clubs.

It would do him no harm to set up no diamonds at all in dummy. The club situation would remain unchanged by bad luck in diamonds.

It would make a difference, however, if he could somehow set up both of dummy's diamond picture cards. In short, he needed two further diamond tricks and it could cost him nothing to try for them.

Since there was only one chance, South led his remaining diamond and played low from the dummy. East had to play the ace, exactly as declarer had hoped, and now the game was in the bag.

East returned the king of clubs, but South won with the ace, entered dummy with a trump, and discarded two clubs on the queen and jack of diamonds. He could then cheerfully give up one club trick.

schedule which would be convenient to the needs of the residents and he also suggested a Sunday service which would be of use to people attending churches.

Says Buses Late

Frank Reis suggested a "tighter" schedule. He said there was need for service but the company had operated the buses in the past in such a manner that they were frequently so late it was necessary for him to take his child to school.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cobb testified she resided on Main street and came to the shopping area every day and had used the bus when it operated. She stated there was need for service in the area and said since its suspension people had been forced to walk or hire a cab to get to the shops or to church.

Mrs. J. Orr, Main street, said she had a child attending school who was not well and since suspension of bus service she had been compelled to either take the child to school or hire a cab. She also testified she had two other daughters who were employed and they used the bus when it operated.

Would Cut Off Empties

Supervisor Vincent Fallon of the 13th ward testified as to need and suggested that certain trips might be eliminated when the service was not essential. He said at times the buses probably were operated "empty" and he suggested a rearrangement of the schedule to take this in mind.

Alderman William J. Parmelee of the 13th ward also suggested cancellation of four trips which might save the company money. Trips which were not well patronized he said could be eliminated and service given when there was need. He said he resided two miles from the school and there was no transportation for children attending high school or junior high. He said he would not desire the company to operate bus service at a loss, but he suggested that if certain alterations were made the service would be patronized and the company need not lose money. He said over 300 people from his area had signed a petition asking for service.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk was the last witness called and he said he had received many complaints since the service had been discontinued. In the 12th ward was a population of about 4,000 and in the 13th ward about 1,200. These people should be supplied with transportation and he felt there was need for it.

Mayor Newkirk suggested that the company arrange a schedule to accomodate people going to and from work, for school children and give some service for shoppers.

The mayor said he had been informed by people of the area that they would rather have a curtailed service than a suspension of all service.

Mayor Newkirk said he would go along with an increase in fare in the wards affected or would even go along with a slight increase on all lines, but leaving school fare at 7½ cents.

Service at times when needed in the two disputed lines, was advocated by the mayor and he suggested a rearrangement of the schedules might be of assistance to the company and still give the residents of the wards service when required. Mayor Newkirk said he would suggest elimination of transfers from the two lines to the main line if this would provide the people of the two wards with transportation.

In March, Mayor Newkirk said he had written the commission suggesting that rather than discontinue service in the 12th and 13th Wards, that the company be permitted to charge a 12 cent fare if these lines could not be operated without a loss. He said he had suggested that rather than grant a permanent suspension of the lines, the bus company submit to the commission a report as to what effect a raise in fare on the two lines would have if made effective without transfers.

Petitions Ruled Out

A resolution adopted by the Common Council advocating continuance of the service was offered and accepted in evidence as an official document.

However a communication of the Ulster County Real Estate Board and one from the Kingston Business Men's Association which had been addressed to the Common Council were not accepted in evidence. The petitions from the two wards which contained many signatures were received for filing, but under the rules of evidence could not be accepted as evidence by the commission.

Commissioner O'Brien then closed the hearing after Thomas Gadd for the bus company stated the company's books had been examined by representatives of the city yesterday.

Stevenson (5,929 precincts) 53,696.

There was a scattering of write in votes in the GOP primary for Gov. Earl Warren of California and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

In the Democratic primary there were write-ins for President Truman and Senator Russell of Georgia.

Projections after the tabulation of votes began indicated the total vote in this primary would reach two million. This would be the largest turnout in 10 years. The all-time record presidential primary vote was 2,674,713 in 1936.

The Taft forces in Illinois predicted the primary "will be a stepping-stone to certain nomination for Senator Taft in the July convention. The results merely confirm * * * that Illinois is strongly for Taft."

Eisenhower's backers insisted they could not make any statement several hours after the polls closed last night because it was "too early."

Kefauver said in Los Angeles he was "gratified by the result." He added that "I do not feel that it really represents a true comparison of Gov. Stevenson's strength and mine. He did not give his sanction to the write-in campaign in his behalf."

In the race for the GOP nomination for governor, William G. Stratton, a veteran politician at the age of 38, was setting a runaway pace for four of his opponents. Stratton is serving his second term as state treasurer after two terms in Congress.

schedule which would be convenient to the needs of the residents and he also suggested a Sunday service which would be of use to people attending churches.

Says Buses Late

Frank Reis suggested a "tighter" schedule. He said there was need for service but the company had operated the buses in the past in such a manner that they were frequently so late it was necessary for him to take his child to school.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cobb testified she resided on Main street and came to the shopping area every day and had used the bus when it operated. She stated there was need for service in the area and said since its suspension people had been forced to walk or hire a cab to get to the shops or to church.

Mrs. J. Orr, Main street, said she had a child attending school who was not well and since suspension of bus service she had been compelled to either take the child to school or hire a cab. She also testified she had two other daughters who were employed and they used the bus when it operated.

Would Cut Off Empties

Supervisor Vincent Fallon of the 13th ward testified as to need and suggested that certain trips might be eliminated when the service was not essential. He said at times the buses probably were operated "empty" and he suggested a rearrangement of the schedule to take this in mind.

Alderman William J. Parmelee of the 13th ward also suggested cancellation of four trips which might save the company money. Trips which were not well patronized he said could be eliminated and service given when there was need. He said he resided two miles from the school and there was no transportation for children attending high school or junior high. He said he would not desire the company to operate bus service at a loss, but he suggested that if certain alterations were made the service would be patronized and the company need not lose money. He said over 300 people from his area had signed a petition asking for service.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk was the last witness called and he said he had received many complaints since the service had been discontinued. In the 12th ward was a population of about 4,000 and in the 13th ward about 1,200. These people should be supplied with transportation and he felt there was need for it.

Mayor Newkirk suggested that the company arrange a schedule to accomodate people going to and from work, for school children and give some service for shoppers.

The mayor said he had been informed by people of the area that they would rather have a curtailed service than a suspension of all service.

Mayor Newkirk said he would go along with an increase in fare in the wards affected or would even go along with a slight increase on all lines, but leaving school fare at 7½ cents.

Service at times when needed in the two disputed lines, was advocated by the mayor and he suggested a rearrangement of the schedules might be of assistance to the company and still give the residents of the wards service when required. Mayor Newkirk said he would suggest elimination of transfers from the two lines to the main line if this would provide the people of the two wards with transportation.

In March, Mayor Newkirk said he had written the commission suggesting that rather than discontinue service in the 12th and 13th Wards, that the company be permitted to charge a 12 cent fare if these lines could not be operated without a loss. He said he had suggested that rather than grant a permanent suspension of the lines, the bus company submit to the commission a report as to what effect a raise in fare on the two lines would have if made effective without transfers.

Petitions Ruled Out

A resolution adopted by the Common Council advocating continuance of the service was offered and accepted in evidence as an official document.

However a communication of the Ulster County Real Estate Board and one from the Kingston Business Men's Association which had been addressed to the Common Council were not accepted in evidence. The petitions from the two wards which contained many signatures were received for filing, but under the rules of evidence could not be accepted as evidence by the commission.

Commissioner O'Brien then closed the hearing after Thomas Gadd for the bus company stated the company's books had been examined by representatives of the city yesterday.

Dies From Injuries

Montrose, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—Albert C. Bennett, 54, died of injuries today from a jump or fall from the second floor of the Montrose Veterans Hospital last Monday. Police said Bennett, a veteran of World War 1, pried loose an iron grill in a bathroom at the hospital while an aide was answering a telephone call. Bennett, who was receiving neuro psychiatric treatment, is survived by a brother, Carlton S., of Buffalo, N. Y., and a sister, Mrs. Ethel Denton of Ossining, N. Y.

Stevenson (5,929 precincts) 53,696.

There was a scattering of write in votes in the GOP primary for Gov. Earl Warren of California and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

In the Democratic primary there were write-ins for President Truman and Senator Russell of Georgia.

Projections after the tabulation of votes began indicated the total vote in this primary would reach two million. This would be the largest turnout in 10 years. The all-time record presidential primary vote was 2,674,713 in 1936.

The Taft forces in Illinois predicted the primary "will be a stepping-stone to certain nomination for Senator Taft in the July convention. The results merely confirm * * * that Illinois is strongly for Taft."

Eisenhower's backers insisted they could not make any statement several hours after the polls closed last night because it was "too early."

Kefauver said in Los Angeles he was "gratified by the result." He added that "I do not feel that it really represents a true comparison of Gov. Stevenson's strength and mine. He did not give his sanction to the write-in campaign in his behalf."

In the race for the GOP nomination for governor, William G. Stratton, a veteran politician at the age of 38, was setting a runaway pace for four of his opponents. Stratton is serving his second term as state treasurer after two terms in Congress.

An operating budget was approved by the board of directors for the fiscal year starting on May 1, when most Chamber membership renewals become due. Plans were also made to establish a membership committee.

President MacAvery summarized the tremendous amount of nationwide publicity being received by Kingston and Ulster county. "The cooperative efforts of Kingston's 300th anniversary, the Kingston Bowling Association, and the Chamber of Commerce, with the direct help of hundreds of citizens, show how effective and valuable a coordinated program can be and the effective results which can be attained." "A real and enthusiastic community spirit has been aroused," MacAvery concluded.

Vining and Smith Lease Runs Out; Plan Other Fields

Scott O. Vining and Harry F. Smith, who have operated the Socony service station at Broadway, St. James street and Albany avenue since it was constructed in 1931, will dissolve partnership and surrender their lease on May 1. Their lease with the company expires on that date.

Vining and Smith, who have operated the station under the name of Vining & Smith, have both made arrangements to enter other lines of business.

Smith will join Charles Matthews, a brother-in-law in Houston, Tex., where he will engage in the construction of homes in that area. Smith plans to move his family to Texas after school closes. He and his son will leave for Texas shortly after May 1 and his family will follow later in the fall.

S. Vining said today that he plans to join the sales force of J. Ellis Briggs, electrical appliance dealer located on the Saugerties road at the East Chester street by-pass, after May 1.

The gas station at Broadway, St. James street and Albany avenue, was erected in 1931 by the Standard Oil Company and at that time Vining and Smith entered the employ of the company as managers of the station.

Leased in 1937

In 1937 they leased the station from the owners and have operated the station since. During the past 20 years they had built up a large business and have made many friends through their courteous efficient service to the public.

Negotiations for lease of the station by the owner after May 1 have not been completed.

Firemen's Bill Vetoed

Albany, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—Governor Dewey vetoed today a bill designed to provide disability pensions for paid firemen who incur heart disease or tuberculosis in the line of duty after 10 years' service. The State Department of Visitors will be welcome.
audit and control told Dewey the measure was defective and "does not accomplish what the sponsors intended."

Two Ponies, Dog Saved From Fire

Two ponies and a dog were saved from the barn of Sam Cooper across from the Rose Marie Cabins on Route 9W before it burned to the ground today.

Cooper suffered a slight burn on an arm, Fire Chief Joseph Dyer of Ulster Hose Company said. The firemen were called at 8:50 a. m.

Cooper entered the barn and brought out the dog and ponies. The latter were singed by the flames but suffered no serious burns, the chief said.

The structure, which is about 15 by 15 feet square, housed only the animals. Origin of the blaze was undetermined, Dyer said.

Three Indicted

Hudson, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—Three men were indicted today on gambling charges by the special grand jury investigating crime and corruption in Columbia county. All were named in one indictment, the first returned by the jury since it was convened in February by order of Governor Dewey. Among the three was Nicholas Lippera, 36, of Hudson. The names of the other two were withheld pending their arrest, expected later today. As Lippera left the courtroom for jail pending efforts to raise $1,000 bail, he lunged at Arthur Z. Brooks of Albany, Associated Press cameraman. Brooks reported the prisoner kicked the camera and smashed it.

Ship Salvage Planned

Singapore (AP)—Two ocean liners and a coal hulk whose scrap value is worth several million dollars are soon to be salvaged from the depths of Singapore harbor. The victims of bombing and mining during World War 2, the ships are the Empress of Asia, the Sirdhana and the hulk Oscar II. The Empress of Asia, aboard which the last batch of British troop reinforcements arrived before Singapore's fall in 1942, was bombed and sunk by Japanese planes with much armor aboard. The Sirdhana hit a mine in 1939 and the hulk was scuttled to prevent it falling into Japanese hands.

Washington, April 9 (AP)—The government seeks to collect $2,749 in additional income taxes from Rep. Powell (D-N. Y.). The internal revenue, according to records of the U. S. Tax Court, claims Powell made improper deductions of $6,507 on his 1945 return. The bureau says he also made a $250 error when he added the deduction.

Financial and Commercial

By RICHARD FISKE

New York, April 9 (AP) — The stock market wavered between gains and losses today as many of the large steel mills remained closed.

Price changes ranged from fractions to around a point either way. Activity was only moderate.

Most of the better gainers shortly after the opening backed away from their best figures of the morning session.

Steel stocks, that gained a bit from their opening lows, sank back again as the session progressed.

Traders were cautious as they tried to assess the effects of the steel situation.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Youngstown and National all were down fractions.

Hold 10 for Probe

New York, April 9 (AP) — Ten longshoremen were held today for continued questioning by detectives seeking to trace the hand-to-hand movements of a stolen revolver used to murder Arnold Schuster. The 10 were held over from more than 150 dock workers rounded up and questioned since early Monday. The 10, it was reported unofficially, are believed to have been among the dockers who handled a Japan-bound shipment of 2,200 revolvers from which 13 were stolen on a Brooklyn pier early in February.

dustry and the CIO United Steel Workers. The union had called a strike for last midnight. Truman chose the seizure procedure as a move to head it off.

No Replies

Sawyer asked that the company officials acknowledge "by return wire" receipt of their appointment as operating managers of their companies on behalf of the government.

Sawyer also said he has received no word that any steel companies had taken steps to resume operations.

Philip Murray, union president, announced last night the CIO steelworkers would work for the government.

Sawyer, after telling reporters of the silent treatment he was getting from the steel companies, got out a statement appealing for the steel companies to "continue to operate in accordance with current practices and procedures."

Cites Steel Need

Sawyer urged the industry to resume operations "pending a decision as to the legal rights involved, because of the vital need for steel for our national defense."

Sawyer was served with summons in three suits brought by the Bethlehem Steel Co., Republic Steel Corp. and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., challenging the seizure order.

As to the suits, Sawyer said in his statement:

"If in these cases the courts should hold that the President has the power to take the action which he has taken, its legality will then be settled. If the courts should hold that he has not the power, further action will then be up to the President and the Congress."

This was a suggestion that Truman would, in the latter, ask Congress for specific seizure power but Sawyer's aides declined to amplify on the statement.

Truman's seizure announcement said both the union and the company would be employes of the government.

The industry will get any profits. Who will have to stand the loss—if there is a loss—is a matter the courts, or Congress, probably would have to decide.

ment" and appeared perturbed at the closed gates.

There was no immediate estimate on how much steel production was lost to the defense effort and civilian production by the strike threat emergency.

The industry has been producing in recent weeks at the rate of approximately two million tons a week.

Steel shortages have been easing recently and many steel company executives have begun to urge the government to relax its controls over production as a result.

Iron Age magazine estimated that the dispute would cost the nation 1,000,000 tons of its normal 2,000,000-ton-a-week output this week even if production is resumed before the week is out.

Vining and Smith Lease Runs Out; Plan Other Fields

Scott O. Vining and Harry F. Smith, who have operated the Socony service station at Broadway, St. James street and Albany avenue since it was constructed in 1931, will dissolve partnership and surrender their lease on May 1. Their lease with the company expires on that date.

Vining and Smith, who have operated the station under the name of Vining & Smith, have both made arrangements to enter other lines of business.

Smith will join Charles Matthews, a brother-in-law in Houston, Tex., where he will engage in the construction of homes in that area. Smith plans to move his family to Texas after school closes. He and his son will leave for Texas shortly after May 1 and his family will follow later in the fall.

S. Vining said today that he plans to join the sales force of J. Ellis Briggs, electrical appliance dealer located on the Saugerties road at the East Chester street by-pass, after May 1.

The gas station at Broadway, St. James street and Albany avenue, was erected in 1931 by the Standard Oil Company and at that time Vining and Smith entered the employ of the company as managers of the station.

Leased in 1937

In 1937 they leased the station from the owners and have operated the station since. During the past 20 years they had built up a large business and have made many friends through their courteous efficient service to the public.

Negotiations for lease of the station by the owner after May 1 have not been completed.

Firemen's Bill Vetoed

Albany, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—Governor Dewey vetoed today a bill designed to provide disability pensions for paid firemen who incur heart disease or tuberculosis in the line of duty after 10 years' service. The State Department of Visitors will be welcome.
audit and control told Dewey the measure was defective and "does not accomplish what the sponsors intended."

Two Ponies, Dog Saved From Fire

Two ponies and a dog were saved from the barn of Sam Cooper across from the Rose Marie Cabins on Route 9W before it burned to the ground today.

Cooper suffered a slight burn on an arm, Fire Chief Joseph Dyer of Ulster Hose Company said. The firemen were called at 8:50 a. m.

Cooper entered the barn and brought out the dog and ponies. The latter were singed by the flames but suffered no serious burns, the chief said.

The structure, which is about 15 by 15 feet square, housed only the animals. Origin of the blaze was undetermined, Dyer said.

Three Indicted

Hudson, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—Three men were indicted today on gambling charges by the special grand jury investigating crime and corruption in Columbia county. All were named in one indictment, the first returned by the jury since it was convened in February by order of Governor Dewey. Among the three was Nicholas Lippera, 36, of Hudson. The names of the other two were withheld pending their arrest, expected later today. As Lippera left the courtroom for jail pending efforts to raise $1,000 bail, he lunged at Arthur Z. Brooks of Albany, Associated Press cameraman. Brooks reported the prisoner kicked the camera and smashed it.

Ship Salvage Planned

Singapore (AP)—Two ocean liners and a coal hulk whose scrap value is worth several million dollars are soon to be salvaged from the depths of Singapore harbor. The victims of bombing and mining during World War 2, the ships are the Empress of Asia, the Sirdhana and the hulk Oscar II. The Empress of Asia, aboard which the last batch of British troop reinforcements arrived before Singapore's fall in 1942, was bombed and sunk by Japanese planes with much armor aboard. The Sirdhana hit a mine in 1939 and the hulk was scuttled to prevent it falling into Japanese hands.

Financial and Commercial

By RICHARD FISKE

New York, April 9 (AP) — The stock market wavered between gains and losses today as many of the large steel mills remained closed.

Price changes ranged from fractions to around a point either way. Activity was only moderate.

Most of the better gainers shortly after the opening backed away from their best figures of the morning session.

Steel stocks, that gained a bit from their opening lows, sank back again as the session progressed.

Traders were cautious as they tried to assess the effects of the steel situation.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Youngstown and National all were down fractions.

Tickets to Church

Little Falls, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—When a motorist finds a yellow tag under the windshield wiper of his parked automobile here it could be just the familiar police summons billing him $1 for parking overtime. Or it may be a slip bearing the message: "Your time had expired on this meter, but a member of the Little Falls Baptist Church inserted a coin for you. You are hereby invited to attend our services—Sunday, 11 a. m., 7:30 p. m."

Although the Chinese had printed books about 1000 years ago, such books did not appear in Europe until the 1400's.

Tears of Thanks

Truck Mileage Tax Returns Are Due on Monday

Albany, April 9 — New York state truck mileage tax returns for March, with tax payments, are due Monday, April 21, the State Tax Commission said today.

The monthly returns, under the state's new weight-distance tax on heavy trucks, are usually due on the 20th of each month, for mileage in the preceding month. Because the 20th of April falls on Sunday, carriers get an extra day's grace this month.

The truck mileage tax for the first five months under the new law, October 1-February 29, was payable March 31, a deadline set by the Tax Commission after the Court of Appeals declined to grant a further stay of collection of the tax.

To date, the Commission announced, Truck Mileage Tax Bureau collections exceed $4,000,000. Fees for highway use permits and plates covering 205,805 vehicles amounted to $1,031,690, while 26,773 motor carriers have filed mileage tax returns totalling $3,234,398.30.

For months, the Commission was stayed by courts from enforcing collection of the mileage tax from truckers who filed monthly tax returns and otherwise complied with the law. The last stay terminated March 14 and the Tax Commission gave truckers until the end of March to pay up from the effective date of the law, October 1, 1951.

Constitutionality of the law is slated to be argued in the Court of Appeals later this month. Its validity was upheld by the Appellate Division.

Honest Japanese

Maple Shade, N. J., April 9 (AP)—The other day Mrs. Henry L. Gibson received a package from Japan containing the wallet of her son, Cpl. Frederick Gibson, who is stationed in Tokyo. A note accompanying the wallet explained the sender, a Japanese, had found it and that since he had a high regard for American troops he wanted to be sure the soldier got it back. The wallet contained $41. It was mailed to the address on Cpl. Gibson's drivers license.

Guilty as Procurer

New York, April 9 (AP)—Samuel J. Gould, 50-year-old attorney and jewelry company manufacturer, was found guilty yesterday by Magistrate Louis Pagnucco of attempting to procure and making indecent proposals to a policewoman. The magistrate set April 22 for sentencing. Policewoman Jeanne Kenney testified at the hearing, which has been pending since January, that when she answered his reply to another woman's "Situation Wanted" advertisement in a newspaper, at the woman's request, Gould offered her $75 to $150 a week to live with him as man and wife and to have dates with "three or four men a day" he would obtain for her. Gould lives at 72-72 112th street, Forest Hills, with his wife and two sons.

Will Chain Baskets

Philadelphia, April 9 (AP)—The city of Philadelphia is going to spend $1 for a chain and lock to protect each one of about 200 wire trash baskets in the central city area. The baskets, worth $10.50 apiece, have been disappearing at the rate of about 15 a year. The bureau of sanitation decided yesterday to chain and lock every basket to a pole to make certain they stay put.

15 Pilgrims Killed

Vera Cruz, Mex., April 9 (AP)—A truck loaded with farmers on a religious pilgrimage veered off the highway and overturned yesterday, killing 15 and injuring 25.

Tree decay mostly is caused by fungi, although it can be aided by certain bacteria.

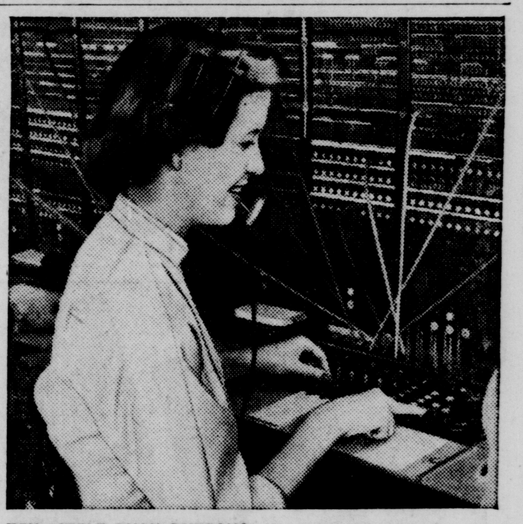
THIS MIGHTY MIDGET— called the "transistor"— is a new amplifier developed by Bell Telephone Laboratories. It holds great promise of making telephone service still better and more dependable. This pea-sized marvel uses only a millionth the power required for a comparable vacuum tube, yet does almost everything a tube can do. The transistor, a product of telephone research, is another development for the future.



TEN LITTLE PUSH BUTTONS now help Long Distance handle your calls more quickly. Using them, the operator dials your calls direct to telephones in distant cities. This "Operator Toll Dialing" now speeds more than half of all New York State's long distance calls. And it's being expanded steadily.

New ideas make your phone a bigger value — better buy

In ten years, many new things have been introduced that make the telephone system more useful and valuable than ever.

To mention just a few—thousands of long distance calls go through faster because they are dialed direct by operators... metropolitan area customers now can dial far beyond their own communities... telephones can be used in cars and trucks traveling streets and highways... microwave radio relays and new coaxial cables have opened many voice channels, and made network television possible.

Other new things, like the transistor shown above, are on the way. In the laboratories and in the field, the search never ends for ways to make your telephone service easier to use—more dependable—more valuable in every way.

Yet the price of telephone service is still low. For the average residence user it is up only 15% since 1939, while the cost of living has jumped 89%. Compared with other things you buy, your phone is one of today's big bargains.

NEW YORK TELEPHONE COMPANY

HERE ANOTHER NEW DIAL FRAME is being installed in the never-ending job of expanding and improving telephone service. It is just one step in the costly and time-consuming task of providing the equipment to serve more telephones. The telephone company's construction program will total $185,000,000 for 1952 alone, provided scarce materials are available.

Truck Mileage Tax Returns Are Due on Monday

Albany, April 9 — New York state truck mileage tax returns for March, with tax payments, are due Monday, April 21, the State Tax Commission said today.

The monthly returns, under the state's new weight-distance tax on heavy trucks, are usually due on the 20th of each month, for mileage in the preceding month. Because the 20th of April falls on Sunday, carriers get an extra day's grace this month.

The truck mileage tax for the first five months under the new law, October 1-February 29, was payable March 31, a deadline set by the Tax Commission after the Court of Appeals declined to grant a further stay of collection of the tax.

To date, the Commission announced, Truck Mileage Tax Bureau collections exceed $4,000,000. Fees for highway use permits and plates covering 205,805 vehicles amounted to $1,031,690, while 26,773 motor carriers have filed mileage tax returns totalling $3,234,398.30.

For months, the Commission was stayed by courts from enforcing collection of the mileage tax from truckers who filed monthly tax returns and otherwise complied with the law. The last stay terminated March 14 and the Tax Commission gave truckers until the end of March to pay up from the effective date of the law, October 1, 1951.

Constitutionality of the law is slated to be argued in the Court of Appeals later this month. Its validity was upheld by the Appellate Division.

June Audrey Becht Wed in Mount Marion To Francis V. Myer

Miss June Audrey Becht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Becht, 89-10 Whitney avenue, Elmhurst, was married to Francis Victor Myer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren D. Myer of Mount Marion, Saturday, at 4:30 p. m. in the Plattekill Reformed Church in Mount Marion. The Rev. Frederick W. A. Sawitzky, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony. A reception for 70 guests followed at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The church was decorated with pussy willows and pink carnations, tulle, and white satin ribbon. Lewis Gaylord, soloist, was accompanied by Mrs. Roland Tonnesen, organist, in the selections, O Promise Me, Because and The Lord's Prayer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of blush pink nylon net trimmed with sequins and pearls fashioned with a bouffant, hooped skirt. She carried blush pink roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Clifford R. Faulkner, as the matron of honor, was attired in a gown of pale pink nylon net styled with draped bodice, gathered skirt and apron effect stiffened with horsehair. She carried a cascade bouquet of pale pink carnations and iris and wore matching flowers as her headpiece.

The bridesmaids were Miss Louise Murray, New York city; Mrs. Warren T. Myers, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Albany; Miss Margaret Myer, cousin of the bride, Freeport; Miss Barbara Myer, also a cousin of the bride, New York city, and a junior bridesmaid, Miss Patricia Faulkner, West Haven, Conn. Their gowns were like that worn by the matron of honor. They carried pink carnations and apple blossoms.

Miss Anne Van Etten, niece of the bridegroom, was the flower girl. She wore a gown of white organdy over pink taffeta and carried a basket of petals. A wreath and apple blossoms was worn for her headpiece.

Warren L. Myer of Albany was his brother's best man. The ushers were Dean Van Etten, Mount Marion; John Keefe, Sidney; Glenn Hunter, Saugerties; and Eugene Hannay of this city.

June Audrey Becht Wed in Mount Marion To Francis V. Myer

Miss June Audrey Becht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Becht, 89-10 Whitney avenue, Elmhurst, was married to Francis Victor Myer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren D. Myer of Mount Marion, Saturday, at 4:30 p. m. in the Plattekill Reformed Church in Mount Marion. The Rev. Frederick W. A. Sawitzky, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony. A reception for 70 guests followed at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The church was decorated with pussy willows and pink carnations, tulle, and white satin ribbon. Lewis Gaylord, soloist, was accompanied by Mrs. Roland Tonnesen, organist, in the selections, O Promise Me, Because and The Lord's Prayer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of blush pink nylon net trimmed with sequins and pearls fashioned with a bouffant, hooped skirt. She carried blush pink roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Clifford R. Faulkner, as the matron of honor, was attired in a gown of pale pink nylon net styled with draped bodice, gathered skirt and apron effect stiffened with horsehair. She carried a cascade bouquet of pale pink carnations and iris and wore matching flowers as her headpiece.

The bridesmaids were Miss Louise Murray, New York city; Mrs. Warren T. Myers, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Albany; Miss Margaret Myer, cousin of the bride, Freeport; Miss Barbara Myer, also a cousin of the bride, New York city, and a junior bridesmaid, Miss Patricia Faulkner, West Haven, Conn. Their gowns were like that worn by the matron of honor. They carried pink carnations and apple blossoms.

Miss Anne Van Etten, niece of the bridegroom, was the flower girl. She wore a gown of white organdy over pink taffeta and carried a basket of petals. A wreath and apple blossoms was worn for her headpiece.

Boys Club Needed Here, Says Cosmos

A Boys Club is "a place that has a friendly atmosphere, warm and attractive, a place a boy can go any time and meet good, wholesome companionship," Nicholas Cosmos, director of the Kingston Boys Club, told Lions Club members meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Tuesday.

Boys Club activities help develop a boy's character and his citizenship value, Cosmos said. The program includes physical education, health training, vocational training, training and guidance in behavior, and social training, he said.

Reporting that it has been estimated that there are 4,000 boys and girls under 18 in Kingston, Cosmos said there is a need for a Boys Club in this city, for there are still many boys not reached by other agencies.

Cosmos said the boys themselves showed that they wanted a Boys Club by the fact that they offered to do over the entire interior of the clubhouse by themselves.

In the country as a whole, there are 350,000 members of Boys Clubs, with 6,000 workers including full and part time and volunteer leaders.

Cosmos, who before coming here was athletic director at the Springfield, Mass., club, closed his talk with a quotation from Theodore Roosevelt: "If you are going to do anything permanent for the average man, you have got to begin before he is a man. The chance of success lies in working with boy and not with the man."

Will Open Canal

Albany, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—The State Public Works Department plans to open all sections of the state Barge Canal system, except the Champlain division, Friday morning—if water and weather conditions are good. The department said yesterday that opening of the Champlain section would be delayed for another week or 10 days because of high water.

George Washington first took command of the American Army under the Washington Elm, in Cambridge, Mass. July 3, 1775.

First Baptist Service

A service of communion and meditation will be held at the First Baptist Church, Albany avenue at Broadway, Thursday at 7:45 p. m. The choirs, under the direction of Mrs. Donald E. Brown and Mrs. Kenneth L. Hicok, will sing two Passion anthems—O Saviour Sweet by J. S. Bach and Come All Ye Weary by Gounod. The Rev. Mr. Brown will give the communion meditation on the theme He Was Alone. The public is cordially invited.

LET'S FACE FACTS...

Business is off — in some sections of the country as high as 30% — manufacturers are trying various means of "pepping up sales" — increased advertising — decreased advertising (they can't afford to increase it) — and "give-a-ways". Just take a look at this array of extras and specials that manufacturers are producing to induce you to buy their merchandise — the amazing thing — they are all good values.

With the purchase of 59c 5-day deodorant pads at 59c you get 25c bottle Kreml Shampoo FREE.

With the purchase of 98c Silver Star Blades, 20 for 98c, you get a 25c package FREE.

With purchase of 1.25 Friendship Garden Toilet Water you get 1.25 New Liquid Petals for 25c or both for 1.50.

With purchase of 50c bottle of Suave for 50c you get 25c bottle Milky Shampoo FREE.

Colgate Palmolive Peet is giving you the 2.00 jar Lustre Cream Shampoo for 1.59.

You can buy the 75c jar of Odo-ro-no Cream for 47c. Tussy is selling their 1.00 Deodorant for 50c.

The above gives you an idea of what's going on. To stimulate business — this store is loaded with bargains like those listed above but they are too numerous to mention.

Now . . . where the manufacturer has failed to produce deals to give you extra value for your money — on Thursday, Friday and Saturday we are giving bonus discounts for the wise shopper who wants to save while the saving is good.

A Boys Club is "a place that has a friendly atmosphere, warm and attractive, a place a boy can go any time and meet good, wholesome companionship," Nicholas Cosmos, director of the Kingston Boys Club, told Lions Club members meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Tuesday.

Boys Club activities help develop a boy's character and his citizenship value, Cosmos said. The program includes physical education, health training, vocational training, training and guidance in behavior, and social training, he said.

Reporting that it has been estimated that there are 4,000 boys and girls under 18 in Kingston, Cosmos said there is a need for a Boys Club in this city, for there are still many boys not reached by other agencies.

Cosmos said the boys themselves showed that they wanted a Boys Club by the fact that they offered to do over the entire interior of the clubhouse by themselves.

In the country as a whole, there are 350,000 members of Boys Clubs, with 6,000 workers including full and part time and volunteer leaders.

Cosmos, who before coming here was athletic director at the Springfield, Mass., club, closed his talk with a quotation from Theodore Roosevelt: "If you are going to do anything permanent for the average man, you have got to begin before he is a man. The chance of success lies in working with boy and not with the man."

Will Open Canal

Albany, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—The State Public Works Department plans to open all sections of the state Barge Canal system, except the Champlain division, Friday morning—if water and weather conditions are good. The department said yesterday that opening of the Champlain section would be delayed for another week or 10 days because of high water.

George Washington first took command of the American Army under the Washington Elm, in Cambridge, Mass. July 3, 1775.

First Baptist Service

A service of communion and meditation will be held at the First Baptist Church, Albany avenue at Broadway, Thursday at 7:45 p. m. The choirs, under the direction of Mrs. Donald E. Brown and Mrs. Kenneth L. Hicok, will sing two Passion anthems — O Saviour Sweet by J. S. Bach and Come All Ye Weary by Gounod. The Rev. Mr. Brown will give the communion meditation on the theme He Was Alone. The public is cordially invited.

THE UNPLEASANT CAMPUS SITUATION

One could hardly encounter a more unpleasant situation than the one described in the following letter: "I am a junior in college and up until this last term have been very popular. However, I have found out that one of my classmates is spreading lies and rumors about me and that is the reason for the sudden change. I am very unhappy about this, but my father and mother tell me to ignore it and that it will soon blow over. I have tried doing this but to no avail. Will you please tell me in what other way I can disprove these rumors and make her stop talking about me?"

The only effective thing that I can suggest that you do is to accuse her of what she said in the presence of others who could be witnesses and offer your proof that what she said is a lie. To accuse her when you and she are alone would not help your situation.

When in Doubt About a Title

Dear Mrs. Post: In our files we have names of women that do not indicate whether they are Miss or Mrs. How should these women be written to and is there any instance where it is proper to send an envelope without a title?

Answer: It is better to use the wrong title than to commit the rudeness of addressing a personal letter to a lady and leave off the title entirely. When you have no way of knowing whether she is Mrs. or Miss, it is always taken for granted that "Mary Smith" is Miss Mary Smith. Of course, every married woman should put "Mrs. John" in parentheses below her signature.

Ask the Waiter

Dear Mrs. Post: Some friends and I have had an argument about the proper thing to do when dining in a restaurant and a piece of silverware falls to the floor. A few say that it is proper to pick it up and the others say to leave it on the floor and ask the waiter for another utensil. Will you please tell us what is right?

Answer: To ask the waiter would be right.

Current Activities Reported by Kingston Hospital Auxiliary

Current activities were reported upon at the monthly meeting of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary, Tuesday evening, April 1, in the nurses' home. This meeting replaced one scheduled for March and postponed.

Mrs. Peter D. Corsones, president, presided and described the volunteer X-ray program in which the auxiliary is participating. Mrs. Robert Russell was appointed to take charge of notifying and reminding members of their service days. Mrs. Corsones urged the membership to cooperate in this work.

The organization will sponsor a booth at the Lions Club exposition. Reporting on this, Mrs. Timothy P. House said the booth will display many interesting items and films depicting activities in the hospital will be shown. A brochure outlining the functions of the auxiliary is being prepared and will be distributed at the booth. Members were asked to volunteer their services to work at the booth during the evenings of the exposition. Those interested were requested to get in touch with Mrs. House.

Before turning the meeting over to the newly elected president, Mrs. Sherwood Davis, Mrs. DeGroff thanked the active and sustaining members for their "splendid cooperation and loyalty to their work and responsibilities" during her term of office.

Record Number Apply for Army And Air Force

M/SGT. IRVIN N. BARTON

The local U. S. Army and Air Force recruiting station set a record for itself March 27 when 18 applicants were shipped to Albany for enlistment, it was announced today by M/Sgt. Irvin N. Barton.

Sgt. Barton pointed out that not all of these men were enlisted, however. Two were rejected for physical reasons and five of the air force applicants were returned because the enlistment quota for the Albany area had been filled for the month of March. Those returned, he said, will be enlisted for some time in April.

Sgt. Barton attributed the sudden boom in army and air force enlistments through the local station to the "diligent efforts of personnel assigned the Kingston station plus the final realization of young men that they have a moral and legal obligation to serve their country, and that there is no way to avoid giving that service to their country. We all must serve our country in some capacity at some time or other, and the best way to discharge that service obligation to our government is to volunteer for enlistment which many are doing. By volunteering for enlistment one is making that choice and is picking the time for enlistment which indicates that one has given more thought to the problem and in addition shows better planning on the part of the individual."

Recent enlistments through the local station not previously announced by Sgt. Barton are as follows:

Air Force: John H. Spanhake, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Spanhake, Mount Tremper; Charles E. McCullough, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCullough, East Kingston; Kenneth F. Boughton, 20, husband of Mrs. Ora Boughton, 107 Gage street.; Reginald E. Benjamin, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Benjamin, West Camp; George Miller, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller, Ellenville; Lester J. Quick, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Quick, Phoenicia; Richard F. Angle, 20, residing at 202 Hurley avenue at time of enlistment; Wilbert E. Herman, 19, Granite City, Illinois.

Army: Robert B. Miller, 20, son of Mrs. Etta Martin, Highland; John D. Johnson, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Zacharias Johnson, Highland; Paul J. Berger, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Berger, Phoenicia; William S. Burgess, 19, son of Colonel and Mrs. George Burgess, Phoenicia; Roy Dymond, 20, son of Isaac Dymond, Sun Down; William L. Wrixon, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wrixon, Woodland; Eugene DeWitt, 20, son of Morris DeWitt, Rosendale; Richard A. Reed, 19, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Reed, Ellenville; Virgil J. Quick, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover V. Quick, Ellenville.

All of the Air Force men enlisted for a period of four years and will receive their basic training at Sampson Air Force Base near Geneva. All Army men enlisted for a period of two years and will be initially assigned to Fort Devens, Mass.

Must Be Progressive

New York, April 9 (AP)—Gov. Earl Warren told a Republican dinner audience last night that the party should nominate a progressive presidential candidate who would not "turn back the clock" even if he could do so. "We cannot rely upon an 'against' campaign to win the election in November," Warren said. "We have convinced the American people that we are thinking in terms of forward action for their welfare. We must not be afraid of the word 'welfare.' "We must not shrink from the known needs for social progress. We must have our own programs and move forward in the spirit of evolution and progress."

Jacoby on Canasta

LEARN HOW TO DISCARD PROPERLY

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"My husband and I play two-hand Canasta a lot," relates an Iowa correspondent. "He manages to go out concealed in nearly every hand. How does he manage to do this so often? Is there some trick to it? Is there any defense against it?"

There are various ways of playing two-hand Canasta, but I will assume that my correspondent plays the most popular form. In this variant, you draw two cards from the stock pile instead of only one (just as in the game of Samba). Since you discard only one card at each turn, your hand tends to grow bigger all the time.

In any game of two-hand Canasta you have no partner to help or inform. Therefore you don't gain very much when you put a meld down on the table instead of keeping it in your hand where your opponent cannot see it.

That is, you don't gain very much as long as the hand continues. When the hand ends, of course, you are better off if your melds are on the table instead of in your hand.

A large part of the skill in two-hand Canasta consists in keeping melds in your hand as long as possible. If you put them down too quickly, your opponent knows too much about your hand. If you don't put your melds down quickly enough, your opponent may meld out and catch you.

If your opponent is not good at melding out quickly, you can keep your melds in your hand until you are yourself ready to meld out. You have all the advantage of concealing your melds and none of the risk that your opponent may meld out before you do.

I suspect that this is exactly what is happening in a certain Iowa home. The lady doesn't concentrate on melding out quickly, and the gentleman can safely keep his melds concealed until he is ready to meld out.

The best defense is to work hard towards melding out quickly. Don't keep odd cards in your hand. Build up melds. You cannot afford to discard "safely." If you do, your hand will become a junk pile and you will never get into out position.

Just catch your opponent with a full hand a few times and he will begin to meld instead of keeping everything in his hand.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Must Be Progressive

New York, April 9 (AP)—Gov. Earl Warren told a Republican dinner audience last night that the party should nominate a progressive presidential candidate who would not "turn back the clock" even if he could do so. "We cannot rely upon an 'against' campaign to win the election in November," Warren said. "We have convinced the American people that we are thinking in terms of forward action for their welfare. We must not be afraid of the word 'welfare.' 'We must not shrink from the known needs for social progress. We must have our own programs and move forward in the spirit of evolution and progress."

Jacoby on Canasta

LEARN HOW TO DISCARD PROPERLY

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"My husband and I play two-hand Canasta a lot," relates an Iowa correspondent. "He manages to go out concealed in nearly every hand. How does he manage to do this so often? Is there some trick to it? Is there any defense against it?"

There are various ways of playing two-hand Canasta, but I will assume that my correspondent plays the most popular form. In this variant, you draw two cards from the stock pile instead of only one (just as in the game of Samba). Since you discard only one card at each turn, your hand tends to grow bigger all the time.

In any game of two-hand Canasta you have no partner to help or inform. Therefore you don't gain very much when you put a meld down on the table instead of keeping it in your hand where your opponent cannot see it.

That is, you don't gain very much as long as the hand continues. When the hand ends, of course, you are better off if your melds are on the table instead of in your hand.

A large part of the skill in two-hand Canasta consists in keeping melds in your hand as long as possible. If you put them down too quickly, your opponent knows too much about your hand. If you don't put your melds down quickly enough, your opponent may meld out and catch you.

If your opponent is not good at melding out quickly, you can keep your melds in your hand until you are yourself ready to meld out. You have all the advantage of concealing your melds and none of the risk that your opponent may meld out before you do.

I suspect that this is exactly what is happening in a certain Iowa home. The lady doesn't concentrate on melding out quickly, and the gentleman can safely keep his melds concealed until he is ready to meld out.

The best defense is to work hard towards melding out quickly. Don't keep odd cards in your hand. Build up melds. You cannot afford to discard "safely." If you do, your hand will become a junk pile and you will never get into out position.

Just catch your opponent with a full hand a few times and he will begin to meld instead of keeping everything in his hand.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Social Security Law Provisions

George J. Johnson, manager of the Kingston Social Security Office, submits another article on the provisions of the social security law:

Spring 1952 marks another milestone in the progress social security is making. April 1952 will be the first month a person will have worked long enough to enable him to have his social security benefit figured under what is known generally as the "new benefit formula." The new formula applies equally to the self-employed person as to the wage earner.

In most cases, the use of this new formula will result in a higher benefit rate. But this higher rate is not to be looked upon as "another automatic increase" for all beneficiaries now on the rolls—as was the case in September 1950. Before the new formula may be used, a person must have worked about a year and a half after 1950.

Persons considering retirement in 1952 should consult their local social security field office in advance of their retirement for the information they will need to help them decide when to apply for benefits.

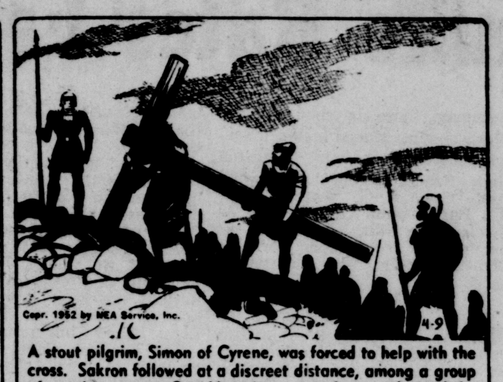
Comparatively few earners will have to decide on a filing date in 1952; but to those wage earners who must make this decision, it will be an important one. Where a claim for benefits is based on self-employment alone, the amount of the benefit will be reduced if the application is filed in 1952. The local social security field office will give you all the information you need to decide which is the best filing date for you, but the final decision rests with you. And remember, your social security benefit payments are based on your average monthly wage; so that only by making the maximum of $3600 every year can you become entitled to the highest monthly payment.

A BOY AT CALVARY

By Jay Heavilin and Walt Scott

Jesus staggered under His crushing load. The soldiers muttered among themselves for it appeared that He would never make it up the hill to Calvary, also known as Golgotha, or "place of the skull."

"You!" snarled a Roman, seizing Sakron by the arm. "Help Him!" Sakron feigned obedience, then lunged to freedom. It was a trick he had often practiced during games of "Romans and Rebels" in Macada.



A stout pilgrim, Simon of Cyrene, was forced to help with the cross. Sakron followed at a discreet distance, among a group of weeping women. One, Veronica, ran to Jesus and wiped the blood and dust from His bruised face with her veil, on which He left the print of His countenance.

BOOK REVIEW

To further increase interest in the Kingston Library the following review by Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge is published.

MY SON AND FOE
By Josephine Pinckney

When Kirk McAfee, wealthy widower, engineer and world traveler stopped off for a brief look at St. Finbar's Island in the Carribean and, discovering an odd-looking villa upon a hilltop looked in for a closer view he stepped right into as unusual a series of circumstances and became deeply involved with as unique a family as one could imagine.

The Metallus family consisted of Basil and Elsi, their son, Ricky and Basil's stepson James. There was also a visitor, Connie Lind from Copenhagen, engaged to James.

At cocktails on the terrace, Kirk soon senses a deep hostility between Ricky and James. Soon after he learns the reason. When James was a baby, his mother became infatuated with Basil, Greek-American scientist and inventor. Ricky was born of that romance. James' father took Elsi and Ricky back into his home and beautiful, impetuous Elsi tried hard to be a faithful wife and a good mother. But when she learned that Basil had sailed for Europe she followed him with Ricky. There they were married and when Elsi inherited the St. Finbar estate from her grandfather they went there to live. James' father died when James was 12 and, Elsi claimed him immediately and brought him to her home. James grew up to be the steady, dependable type; Ricky, handsome as a Greek God, with his graceful, evenly tanned body and crown of black curls was entirely lacking in responsibility and was a constant irritant to James. Elsi tried to conceal her adoration of Ricky from James, but quite uselessly. Then she invited Connie to her home, hoping that a wife for James would be the solution of his growing jealousy and unhappiness.

McAfee falls in love with Elsi at once and they carry on a clandestine affair—as they think—but Basil, knowing Elsi so well is well aware of it from the first and blandly gnores it.

McAfee stays on at St. Finbar longer than he intended, partly because of the alluring Elsi but more because of a genuine attachment for James and a wish to help him. The easy, careless Island life intrigues him with its happy-go-lucky picnics and beach and sailing parties and rides over the Island on horse or donkey back or back-breaking dashes in the family jeep. He hears gossip in the village about hidden treasure supposed to be somewhere about and meets "Neptune," a huge blue-black native, digging for gold accompanied by his prize nanny goat, "Lovey," capering nearby.

Finally after various tiffs among the too dramatic members of the Metallus family, James learns that Rikky has surreptitiously charmed his Connie away from him. This, and the growing tension culminates in a tragedy which brings sorrow to the whole family. McAfee stays only long enough to clear up suspicion casting the burden of guilt upon the wrong person and then regretfully departs.

It is an absorbing story with much sound philosophy beneath the surface of the glittering dialogue. A book to read more than once.

Judge Has Doubts

Santa Monica, Calif., April 9 (AP)—After saying he doubts the truthfulness of certain testimony by wealthy turfman Lindsay Howard and his wife, Judith Barrett, a judge awarded her a divorce on grounds of extreme cruelty. Witnesses for Howard during the 10-day contested divorce trial testified they saw Mrs. Howard visit amateur golfer Clarke Hardwicke at his apartment several times. She denied the visits. Her witnesses said Howard was frequently drunk. He denied intemperance. The judge said he doubts the truthfulness of both denials.

Virginia Coal

A single train with enough cars to handle all the coal produced in West Virginia in 1951 would be long enough to girdle the earth at the equator.

Electric Production

World production of electricity is estimated at 1,020 billion kilowatt hours in 1951 of which the United States produced 43 per cent and Russia 10 per cent.

Coach Frank McGuire Rates Eastern Basketball Best in the Country

Youthful, handsome Coach Frank McGuire of St. John's College of New York made a stout defense of New York city and eastern basketball in an address before more than 100 persons at the second annual Church Basketball League banquet last night at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

McGuire told his audience that the Redmen's victories over Illinois and Purdue on a short swing through the Big Ten belt convinced him that metropolitan basketball is sounder and superior to the race horse stuff which is traditional in the Big Ten.

A Kingston alumnus of St. John's—City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer — introduced McGuire, who enthralled his listeners for nearly an hour with basketball lore and observations and a question period.

Dick McCarthy was the toastmaster and introduced among others Andrew Murphy III, the Superintendent of Recreation; Alderman-at-Large Joe Kelly; Harry L. Edson, assistant to Murphy and Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor, who were seated at the speaker's table.

Among those in the audience who were introduced included several members of the Kingston High School physical education staff—Coaches G. Warren Kias, Bill Burke, John Gilligan and Al Gruner. Joe Sills, who served as coach and scorekeeper for the Church League, was also introduced.

St. John's Spirit

The spirit of basketball at St. John's makes it a feared institution in cage circles, McGuire observed. He implied that everything else being equal, visiting teams frequently choke up against the Redmen at Madison Square Garden.

In his introduction, Kramer pointed out that McGuire's squads have won an average of 21 games per season since the former St. John's star took over the head coaching reigns. McGuire earned fame at St. John's under Buck Freeman, one of the all-time basketball coaching greats who is now an assistant to Clair Bee at Long Island University.

The brilliant young New Yorker with the ready Irish wit and traditional pride of the metropolitan product admitted that the sensational upset victory over Adolph Rupp's invincible Kentucky Wildcats was a tremendous personal thrill for him and his boys.

Wanted Big Ten Wins

McGuire said the victory over Kentucky — a team that had routed St. John's by 41 points in their first meeting this season — was a beautiful dream. The NIT championship was a superior thrill, he added.

But the accomplishments that pleased him most was the victories over Indiana, Purdue and Illinois, the Big Ten powerhouses.

"I wanted to win those games more than any in my career," McGuire said, filling in some background for his listeners. "I spent three years in service in the Big Ten area and came into frequent contact with Branch McCracken of Illinois. We naturally argued about the relative merits of Big Ten and Eastern basketball and I could never win. You'll get murdered if you go out to the Big Ten, I was told. Why that Indiana basketball is sensational. That's all I heard day after day."

The rest is basketball history, McGuire went on. "We beat Indiana, Purdue and Illinois, because we forced them to play our style. We couldn't rebound or run with those mid-western giants. They are spectacular one-hand and jump shot artists. But they can't handle the ball like the New York city boys. We played possession basketball and drove them frantic. But that was the only way we could beat them, even if the fans out there booed us continuously.

"New York city and eastern boys have a certain finesse and alertness that make them tougher than any section in the country. For size, height, weight and speed we can't match the mid-western monsters, but in ball control, sensible shooting and poise we're more than a match for them."

McGuire paid high praise to the high school basketball coaches of the nation. He singled out Coach G. Warren Kias as one of the best high school coaches in the state and said he was pleased to see such terrific basketball spirit in the community.

Met Bowling Aces Here Saturday; Campi, Botten, Castellano Due

State tournament notes: Saturday, April 12, 1 p. m. at Ferraro's Bowlodrome. That's the day, date and hour when the Big Sweat gets under way. Johnny Ferraro will need family-size shoe horns to accommodate the crush of spectators.

Maybe Fromer Amocos and Alpine will do some sweating. You can't blame them. Not, if a powerhouse like Wagner-Adler of the New York Metropolitan Major League — 1021 team average should draw the fabled 7 and 8 or 9 and 10, let's say.

Campi and Castellano

Wagner-Adler with five outstanding "name" bowlers is making a shambles of the Newark Major. The team personnel features famed Lou Campi, Joe Brown, 210 average; Frank "Slim" Okular, 207; Al Faragalli, 209; and Graz Castellano, 204. Castellano is the newly crowned Metropolitan Match Game champion. He whipped Tony Sparando in a 16-game test across 32 alleys last weekend.

If that isn't enough to scare the local boys, then there's the perennial powerhouse—Brunswick Mineralites with a 974 average and such famed performers as Eddie Botten, George Kwiecinski; Chuck Pezzano, Eastern Intercollegiate kingpin; Jim Santore and Bill Luzzi.

Caruso Woodworking of the Met Major will have a 950-average team on that 1 p. m. squad. Their top performer is Nat Joseph, who will bowl from scratch. Joseph is one of Gotham's standouts. Norman Klein's Duracraft and Browning King, both of the Met Major will field teams around the 950-average mark.

Good Alley Maintenance

The fact that the New Yorkers drew the first squad of the day is in favor of Fromer's and Alpines. Johnny Ferraro, Marty Kellenberger, and Fred Rice have done a marvelous job of keeping the Bowlodrome lanes in "tournament condition." Although the Ferraro lanes have a reputation for high scoring action, the state tournament keglers are encountering alley and pin conditions not generally associated with regular season play. The alleys are highly glossed and buffed and the pins are 3 pound 6 ounces.

Every time you see one of the house men pacing up and down the alley beds with that oil mop between squads, it's a guarantee that scores won't come cheaply.

Singles and doubles action at the Bowlatorium have been a pleasant surprise. Scores skyrocketed this weekend and with Kingston and New York sharpshooters in action this week, some sensational totals can be expected. The railbirds will be dizzy racing back and forth between the two alleys trying to keep up with the "name" performers.

This is the fabulous Hammerin' Hank Kemmerer, master of alleys 7 and 8 at Ferraro's Bowlodrome, who rocked four "700" triples, including a 759, during the 1951-52 campaign. He then pounded 684 in the five-man event of the state tournament. (Freeman Photo)

LaMotta Predicts Kayo Over Hayes

Detroit, April 9 (AP) — Former middleweight champion Jake La Motta says he is going to stop Norman Hayes, 20-year-old Negro from Boston, in their 10-round bout at Olympic Stadium tonight.

The 30-year-old ring veteran isn't alone in thinking he will be the victor. The lads who back up their opinion with cash have installed the stocky La Motta a 7 to 5 favorite.

La Motta will weigh about 165 and Hayes 161.

The bout will be broadcast and telecast nationally starting at 10 p. m. (EST).

La Motta will be out to avenge the defeat inflicted on him by Hayes last January in Boston.

FERRARO MAJOR LEAGUE CHAMPIONS FOR 1951-52

Jones Dairy's powerhouse found the "conditions" just right at the Ferraro Bowlodrome, or so it says here, and made a shambles of the field in the city's most powerful circuit. Their march to the title included a 21-game winning streak. The team personnel includes, left to right: Bill Kuehn, Ad Jones, sponsor; Howard "Hod" Spaulding, Ken Williams and Harry Smith. Kuehn, Spaulding and Williams are wearing their "700" ABC shoulder patches. (Freeman Photo).

What are the chances of Fromer Petroleum's 3249 and 3105 standing up in the 1952 state tournament?

The answer is better than good, on the basis of winning scores in the 1951 championships at Elmira. The 3249 should be worth $1500 plus a sponsor's trophy and individual medals to the Petroleum keglers come May 26 when the 55-day tenpin marathon winds up.

Rago's Oxfords of Rochester copped the '51 title with a gross of 3196 and the best net score was the 2980 rolled by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of Cortland.

The teams and individuals rolling the highest actual scores are recognized as the state champions, but the big first prize money in each event goes to the scores with handicaps.

In the net five-man division, the 3075 by Alpine; Hymes Shoes' 3043 and Wiltwyck Motors' 3006 would also have qualified for the 1951 honors.

The Alpines' 1106 is almost certain to bring $25 extra in prize money. A 1070 did the trick last year. The Alpines' 1162 gross single falls below the winning total of 1196 posted by Rago Oxfords last year. Fromer's 1141 and the same score by the Nationals of Ithaca could stand up.

Howard Robbins and Jack Swift of Poughkeepsie lead the gross doubles with 1363 and this is only a pin shy of the tournament championship mark posted by Frank Laemlein and Elmer Ward of Rochester last year. John Mezzopane and Frank "Slim" Okular of New York cracked 1288 for the high net doubles and that was 40 pins better than the current leading total of 1248.

Harold Anderson of Waverly pounded a whopping gross of 759 to capture the gross singles last year. The best score to date is 733 by Joe Sweeney of New York. Nick Svercheck, another New Yorker, leads the net singles division with a rousing 695 and that is three pins higher than last year's 692 posted by Charles Pozniak of Herkimer. Austin Wynkoop of Middletown should win high single net with his 290.

Paul Rahn's 1956 all-events total which leads at the moment would have been good for no better than 14th position last year. Paul Busco of Syracuse slammed 2007 for his nine games with handicap at Elmira. Frank "Slim" Okular of the Metropolitan Major, who will be seen in action this weekend, rolled 1910 to grab the all-events without handicap.

The prize list for the Kingston tournament will run a bit deeper than in '51, since there are 1596 teams registered compared to the 1521 at Elmira. But a breakdown of the prize list will serve as a fair criterion of what to expect this time.

The five-man division paid 410 paces, with a low of 2920 gross in the money down to $16. There were six net scores in the payoff, with a low of 2894. The doubles division went down 819 places to a low of 1171 worth $6. Again there were six places in the net—one championship total—and five others ranging to a low of 1208, worth $40.00. A total of 1603 keglers shared in the singles money, with a base figure of 600 gross, paying $2.84. The net division was more lucrative than most sharpers seem to think. There were $300 in prizes with lows to 639. Johnny Ferraro earned $100 for his 677 scratch singles.

All-events prize money went to 373 bowlers to a low gross of 1836, worth $1.66. Five places in the net division ended at 1843.

The biggest clamor against a handicap tournament comes from the Class A keglers. In their frenzy against the handicap, they overlook the fact that there is a lot of gold in the scratch totals. If they bear down all the way and roll above their average, as they must do 50 per cent of the time to stay at their lofty figure, they might get a pleasant surprise when the checks are mailed out.

The Ruzzo Bowlatorium will be a gold mine tonight and tomorrow for Kingston bowlers. It will be interesting to see how much money is carted out of the building by local sharpshooters.

Knicks Reach NBA Finals

New York, April 9 (AP) — The New York Knickerbockers today were in the final playoff series of the National Basketball Association with Minneapolis' towering Lakers furnishing the opposition this time.

The Knicks completed the Eastern Division playoffs last night by eliminating the Syracuse Nationals 100-93 for their third victory in the best of five series. The Lakers have been idle since disposing of the defending Rochester Royals in the Western Division.

The first of the best seven championship series is scheduled for St. Paul Saturday night with the second in the same city on Sunday. Then the series shifts back to New York: St. Paul is the home court for the Lakers in the playoffs because their Minneapolis floor is being used by an ice show.

A year ago the Knicks went into the finals against Rochester, where they lost in seven games.

In eliminating the Nats last night, New York chalked up its 23rd successive home victory as Ernie Vandeweghe broke the game open in the third period with six points.

That spurt gave the Knicks a 47-39 margin from a 40-38 half lead and they never relinquished the advantage.

The Nats' Dolph Schayes was the high scorer with 22 points in a game in which 81 fouls were called, 44 against Syracuse. Max Zaslofsky and Dick McGuire were the king pins of the Knicks' attack, dropping in 20 and 19 points, respectively.

Newark, N. J.—Johnny "Red" Defazio, 147½, Bayonne, and Jimmy Champagne, 149, Philadelphia, drew, 8.

Joe Bush Pounds 654 in Central Rec Loop; Eleanor Singer Socks '100' and 227-221

Joe "Bush" Sangi continued to sock his home lanes last night and Eleanor Singer hung up the wash for a rousing 548 after exactly "100" in her first game in the Washday Blues League at the Bowlatorium.

Sangi fired successive counts of 233, 208, 213 for the hat trick and 654 to pace the Central Rec League.

Singer's comeback in the three game set is the most spectacular on record in local history. After the 100-opener, she roared back with successive scores of 227 and 221.

Jessie Burnett topped the final session of the Friendship League with 193-157-181—531, one pin ahead of Dot Flemings. Five-hundred triples were scarce in the Booster League where Lou Goldstein set the pace with 182-192-171—545.

Rawding President

Dot Rawding has been elected president of the Friendship League for the 1952-53 season. Sis Nestell will be vice-president; Marge Jansen, secretary, and Ada Markle, treasurer. The sergeant-at-arms will be Winnie Overfield.

Dot Flemings' 202-high single in the league gave her runnerup honors. Dot Rawding fired 518. Other top counts were Bertha Schaller 497; Edna Peterson 489; Evelyn Dolson 484; Ada Markle 478; Elsie Dykes 476; Evelyn Gross 475; Marge Jansen 470.

Frank Bruno missed the "600" circle by a single stick with 200-226—599 in the Central Rec loop. Eddie Heins rapped 584; Harry Hines 211-209—569; F. Bartroff 200-211—567; Chris Robinson 220—566; Allen Hoey 203—554; Carl Bowser 240—548; J. Bartsch 530; Bill Johnson 200—526; Frank Grimaldi 202—524; J. Greco 522; W. Hornbeck 520.

Senor Socks 534

Hype Senor was runnerup man in the Booster League with 534 and Ed Weyant posted 512. Three keglers crashed into the 490-bracket—John Letus, Jack Reynolds, Sam Moss—while Ken Hopper and Jim Ryan each had 480s.

Rosalie Eckdish was second best with 456 in the Washday Blues and Miriam Posner shot 450. Also of note were Ann Manfro's 447, Helen Kaman 435, Elsie Dykes 427 and Marge Logan 401.

Singles Shuffled In ABC Standings

Milwaukee, April 9 (AP)—Lesser known pinsters grabbed the spotlight in the 18th day of action at the American Bowling Congress tournament yesterday as hundreds vied for portions of the $450,000 jackpot.

Karr McClintock, 43, an iron engineer from Macomb, Ill., provided the top thrill by firing 1,888 in the all events to roll into third place. Rifling a 633 team count Monday, he came back for 649 in the doubles and 606 in singles yesterday. He ended a good day by striking out in the tenth frame of his final game.

Two maple spillers jumped into the 700 bracket in singles.

Don Taylor, 28-year-old Detroiter, slammed 703. He opened with 232, inserted a 224 middle and finished with 247. In his finale, Taylor muffed the 3-10 split in the first frame, roared back with a spare and six pocket hits in succession until he left the No. 10 in the ninth. Two more strikes put him into the select circle.

Louis Kacere, restaurant owner from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, was a shade behind with 702. He started with 218, added 224, and climaxed his doings by blasting a hefty 260.

Diz in Rare Form For 1952 Season

Cincinnati (NEA) — Dizzy Dean can mutilate the English language at the drop of an adjective.

The former Cardinal pitching star turned baseball announcer was in rare form broadcasting an exhibition game between the Red Birds and Cincinnati.

When large Ted Kluzewski of the Reds stood at the plate waving his bat menacingly, Dean observed, "That hitter looks mighty hitterish up there."

Diz almost exploded his larynx the day Cincy's Kluzewski, Johnny Wyrostek and Bob Borkowski got into the same play. After wrestling with their names a few times, he gave up and referred to them as, "well, them fellas."

"Don't you know the King's English?" someone chided Dean once.

"I don't care if he is," Diz said.

Coach Frank McGuire Rates Eastern Basketball Best in the Country

Youthful, handsome Coach Frank McGuire of St. John's College of New York made a stout defense of New York city and eastern basketball in an address before more than 100 persons at the second annual Church Basketball League banquet last night at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

McGuire told his audience that the Redmen's victories over Illinois and Purdue on a short swing through the Big Ten belt convinced him that metropolitan basketball is sounder and superior to the race horse stuff which is traditional in the Big Ten.

A Kingston alumnus of St. John's—City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer — introduced McGuire, who enthralled his listeners for nearly an hour with basketball lore and observations and a question period.

Dick McCarthy was the toastmaster and introduced among others Andrew Murphy III, the Superintendent of Recreation; Alderman-at-Large Joe Kelly; Harry L. Edson, assistant to Murphy and Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor, who were seated at the speaker's table.

Among those in the audience who were introduced included several members of the Kingston High School physical education staff—Coaches G. Warren Kias, Bill Burke, John Gilligan and Al Gruner. Joe Sills, who served as coach and scorekeeper for the Church League, was also introduced.

St. John's Spirit

The spirit of basketball at St. John's makes it a feared institution in cage circles, McGuire observed. He implied that everything else being equal, visiting teams frequently choke up against the Redmen at Madison Square Garden.

In his introduction, Kramer pointed out that McGuire's squads have won an average of 21 games per season since the former St. John's star took over the head coaching reigns. McGuire earned fame at St. John's under Buck Freeman, one of the all-time basketball coaching greats who is now an assistant to Clair Bee at Long Island University.

The brilliant young New Yorker with the ready Irish wit and traditional pride of the metropolitan product admitted that the sensational upset victory over Adolph Rupp's invincible Kentucky Wildcats was a tremendous personal thrill for him and his boys.

Wanted Big Ten Wins

McGuire said the victory over Kentucky — a team that had routed St. John's by 41 points in their first meeting this season — was a beautiful dream. The NIT championship was a superior thrill, he added.

But the accomplishments that pleased him most was the victories over Indiana, Purdue and Illinois, the Big Ten powerhouses.

"I wanted to win those games more than any in my career," McGuire said, filling in some background for his listeners. "I spent three years in service in the Big Ten area and came into frequent contact with Branch McCracken of Illinois. We naturally argued about the relative merits of Big Ten and Eastern basketball and I could never win. You'll get murdered if you go out to the Big Ten, I was told. Why that Indiana basketball is sensational. That's all I heard day after day."

The rest is basketball history, McGuire went on. "We beat Indiana, Purdue and Illinois, because we forced them to play our style. We couldn't rebound or run with those mid-western giants. They are spectacular one-hand and jump shot artists. But they can't handle the ball like the New York city boys. We played possession basketball and drove them frantic. But that was the only way we could beat them, even if the fans out there booed us continuously.

"New York city and eastern boys have a certain finesse and alertness that make them tougher than any section in the country. For size, height, weight and speed we can't match the mid-western monsters, but in ball control, sensible shooting and poise we're more than a match for them."

McGuire paid high praise to the high school basketball coaches of the nation. He singled out Coach G. Warren Kias as one of the best high school coaches in the state and said he was pleased to see such terrific basketball spirit in the community.

The doubles division went down 819 places to a low of 1171 worth $6. Again there were six places in the net—one championship total—and five others ranging to a low of 1208, worth $40.00. A total of 1603 keglers shared in the singles money, with a base figure of 600 gross, paying $2.84. The net division was more lucrative than most sharpers seem to think. There were $300 in prizes with lows to 639. Johnny Ferraro earned $100 for his 677 scratch singles.

All-events prize money went to 373 bowlers to a low gross of 1836, worth $1.66. Five places in the net division ended at 1843.

The biggest clamor against a handicap tournament comes from the Class A keglers. In their frenzy against the handicap, they overlook the fact that there is a lot of gold in the scratch totals. If they bear down all the way and roll above their average, as they must do 50 per cent of the time to stay at their lofty figure, they might get a pleasant surprise when the checks are mailed out.

The Ruzzo Bowlatorium will be a gold mine tonight and tomorrow for Kingston bowlers. It will be interesting to see how much money is carted out of the building by local sharpshooters.

Knicks Reach NBA Finals

New York, April 9 (AP) — The New York Knickerbockers today were in the final playoff series of the National Basketball Association with Minneapolis' towering Lakers furnishing the opposition this time.

The Knicks completed the Eastern Division playoffs last night by eliminating the Syracuse Nationals 100-93 for their third victory in the best of five series. The Lakers have been idle since disposing of the defending Rochester Royals in the Western Division.

The first of the best seven championship series is scheduled for St. Paul Saturday night with the second in the same city on Sunday. Then the series shifts back to New York. St. Paul is the home court for the Lakers in the playoffs because their Minneapolis floor is being used by an ice show.

A year ago the Knicks went into the finals against Rochester, where they lost in seven games.

In eliminating the Nats last night, New York chalked up its 23rd successive home victory as Ernie Vandeweghe broke the game open in the third period with six points.

That spurt gave the Knicks a 47-39 margin from a 40-38 half lead and they never relinquished the advantage.

The Nats' Dolph Schayes was the high scorer with 22 points in a game in which 81 fouls were called, 44 against Syracuse. Max Zaslofsky and Dick McGuire were the king pins of the Knicks' attack, dropping in 20 and 19 points, respectively.

Newark, N. J.—Johnny "Red" Defazio, 147½, Bayonne, and Jimmy Champagne, 149, Philadelphia, drew, 8.

Singles Shuffled In ABC Standings

Milwaukee, April 9 (AP)—Lesser known pinsters grabbed the spotlight in the 18th day of action at the American Bowling Congress tournament yesterday as hundreds vied for portions of the $450,000 jackpot.

Karr McClintock, 43, an iron engineer from Macomb, Ill., provided the top thrill by firing 1,888 in the all events to roll into third place. Rifling a 633 team count Monday, he came back for 649 in the doubles and 606 in singles yesterday. He ended a good day by striking out in the tenth frame of his final game.

Two maple spillers jumped into the 700 bracket in singles.

Don Taylor, 28-year-old Detroiter, slammed 703. He opened with 232, inserted a 224 middle and finished with 247. In his finale, Taylor muffed the 3-10 split in the first frame, roared back with a spare and six pocket hits in succession until he left the No. 10 in the ninth. Two more strikes put him into the select circle.

Louis Kacere, restaurant owner from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, was a shade behind with 702. He started with 218, added 224, and climaxed his doings by blasting a hefty 260.

Diz in Rare Form For 1952 Season

Cincinnati (NEA) — Dizzy Dean can mutilate the English language at the drop of an adjective.

The former Cardinal pitching star turned baseball announcer was in rare form broadcasting an exhibition game between the Red Birds and Cincinnati.

When large Ted Kluzewski of the Reds stood at the plate waving his bat menacingly, Dean observed, "That hitter looks mighty hitterish up there."

Diz almost exploded his larynx the day Cincy's Kluzewski, Johnny Wyrostek and Bob Borkowski got into the same play. After wrestling with their names a few times, he gave up and referred to them as, "well, them fellas."

"Don't you know the King's English?" someone chided Dean once.

"I don't care if he is," Diz said.

Giants Buy Veteran Bob Elliott; Plan to Use Him As Outfielder

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The pennant stock of the New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers is on the ascent today.

It appears that Clem Labine, slated to fill the big shoes of Private Don Newcombe of the United States Army, will make the grade while the Giants' hopes are brightened by the acquisition of Bob Elliott, veteran slugger from the Boston Braves.

The Giants obtained Elliott late last night for pitcher Sheldon Jones and an estimated $50,000. Elliott, a holdout with the Braves, came to terms quickly and will report to the Giants at Tulsa, Okla., tomorrow.

Manager Leo Durocher plans to stick Elliott in left field, a spot left vacant by the injury to Monte Irvin, who suffered a broken ankle in a recent exhibition game.

The Giants can use Elliott's big bat. The National League champions were beaten, 5-0, by the Cleveland Indians in Houston, Tex., yesterday. Bob Feller and George Zervink blanked the Giants on eight hits.

Brooklyn doesn't expect Labine to win 20 games but the Brooks wouldn't be surprised if the husky 25-year-old curve ball artist did hit that magic number.

Labine, bothered recently with a swelling on his pitching elbow, became the third Dodger pitcher to go nine innings yesterday when he turned back the Boston Braves, 4-1, at Richmond, Va.

The youngster, a former Army paratrooper, said after the game that his arm was improved.

The Dodger hopeful, who gained the spotlight last year when he won five games and lost one, allowed the Braves eight hits. The Dodgers' six hits included two home runs by Duke Snider and one by Gil Hodges.

Veterans Ed Lopat and Allie Reynolds also came up with a fine pitching performance as the New York Yankees downed Charlotte of the Tri-State League, 3-1, at Charlotte, N. C.

Vinegar Bend Mizell, prize Cardinal rookie, allowed only one hit in five innings as St. Louis nosed out the Philadelphia Phils, 9-8, at Winston-Salem, N. C. The Phils came to life after Mizell departed and jumped on Red Munger for seven runs in the seventh inning.

Maurice McDermott blanked the Athletics on two hits for seven innings but the Athletics landed on Jim Atkins for four runs in the eighth inning to beat the Boston Red Sox, 4-3, at Lynchburg, Va.

Minnie Minoso banged out four hits to lead the Chicago White Sox to an easy 8-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates at New Orleans.

Home runs were the big factors in the remaining games.

Dee Fondy homered with two out and one on in the last of the ninth off Satchel Paige to give the Chicago Cubs a 5-4 decision over the St. Louis Browns at Oklahoma City, Okla.

The Washington Senators outslugged the Cincinnati Reds, 10-9, at Bluefield, W. Va., in a game featured by seven homers. Seven home runs also were hit at Atlanta, Ga., where the Detroit Tigers trounced the Crackers of the Southern Association, 10-4.

St. Joseph's 'A' Shades Old Hurley 'A' To Create Triple Tie in Church League

A foul shot that St. Joseph's "A" picked up and one that Old Hurley "A" muffed is the reason why the Junior Church Basketball League is all snarled up in a triple tie.

The three-way deadlock was effected last night when St. Joe's edged the Hurleyites, 29-28. Involved in the triple playoff will be St. Joseph's, St. Mary's, and Salvation Army.

With St. Joseph's leading 29-28 in the last few seconds, Jack Hickey of Old Hurley had a chance to send the game into overtime with a foul conversion. But he missed and that was the end of the ball game.

Each team had a dozen fields, with the winners holding a 5-4 edge from the foul line to decide the issue.

Bob Cahill rimmed 11 points for the winners and Paul Giannuzzi hit with eight. Eddie Browne holed 12 for Old Hurley, with Tiano and Hickey sharing 14.

Training Camp News in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Baltimore, Md., April 9 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers haven't lost that home run punch.

The Dodgers, who led both leagues in home runs in 1951, have clouted 22 this spring and allowed the opposition 13. Duke Snider slammed two and Gil Hodges one yesterday in Brooklyn's 4-1 victory over the Boston Braves at Richmond, Va.

Norfolk, Va., April 9 (AP)—Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees apparently has decided on his outfield setup for the season.

Hank Bauer will be in rightfield, Mickey Mantle in center and Jackie Jensen and Gene Woodling will alternate in left.

Mantle was given the centerfield post by Stengel yesterday. Stengel said "the job is Mantle's if he can convince me he has learned how to go back after a fly ball. I know he can do everything else."

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 9 (AP)—Dizzy Trout, recovered from a virus throat infection, is expected to pitch for Detroit Tigers today in the opener of a two-game series with Chattanooga.

Righthander Virgil Trucks is laid up with the same kind of infection but is expected to be all right in two or three days.

Art Houtteman, who has been absent because of the auto crash death of his infant daughter, is due to rejoin the squad at Columbus, O., Friday. He will pitch against the Cincinnatti Reds in the opener of a three-game exhibition series and is the likely pitcher for the Tigers opening game Tuesday against the St. Louis Browns.

Springfield, Mass., April 9 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox—just home after a long exhibition tour covering 3,600 air miles—take on the Springfield club of the International League here today.

It is the last contest for the Sockers before they resume their city series with the Braves tomorrow in Boston. The Sox have dropped both Grapefruit clashes with their Hub rivals.

Schwab Applies

The first applicant for an umpire's post in the City Baseball League is veteran Bill Schwab, who has been identified as a man in blue in the circuit for many years. Other applications are now being received.

TALLYING ONE FOR THE DODGERS

Brooklyn Dodgers Outfielder Carl Furillo slides home safely after Boston Braves Pitcher Jim Wilson uncorked a wild pitch in third inning of exhibition game at Richmond, Va. Wilson is late with a tag on the recovery toss from Catcher Ebba St. Claire. Umpire is Scotty Robb. Dodgers won, 4-1. (AP Wirephoto)

Elliott to Giants

New York—The New York Giants acquired veteran third baseman Bob Elliott from the Boston Braves in exchange for pitcher Sheldon Jones and cash, estimated at $50,000.

Rose Schatzel Socks 668 Series in Major

DUKE DRIVES—The Duke of Windsor follows his ball closely after driving off in the Seminole Golf Tournament at West Palm Beach. The Duke was in fast company, veteran Sammy Snead zooming up from 27th place to cop the $10,000 competition with a neat 138 total. (NEA)

Rose Schatzel found the state tournament conditions at the Bowlodrome right up her alley, if you'll pardon the pun.

Except for Dot Rawding no other Woman Major keglerette achieved the "500" bracket in the Monday night action, but Mrs. Schatzel solved the highly glossed planks for one of her top triples of the season—a rousing 668.

The Queen opened with a robust 244 and continued to pour pocket shots for solos of 215 and 209. Dot Rawding posted 516 with 155-188-173.

Betty Schoonmaker reeled off 496 and Betty Bruck had a 494.

Mays to Appeal

Birmingham, Ala., April 9 (AP)—Willie Mays, New York Giant outfielder, today plans to appeal to Alabama Selective Service headquarters at Montgomery for deferment of his draft orders. The appeal will be based on hardship grounds. The 20-year-old Negro athlete said he is the chief support of four of his nine brothers and sisters. His stepfather is unemployed.

What to look for if you want a better 1½-or 2-ton truck

"Our Dodge 2-ton models have done a remarkable job for us."
. . . says S. W. TANNER
Veteran's Gas and Service Co., Pueblo, Colorado

Look first for the truck that best fits your job!

Look for strong, rugged load-carrying units—frame, springs, axles, wheels, and others—engineered to provide the strength and capacity you need. Look for load-moving units—engine, clutch, transmission, and others—engineered to meet the most severe operating conditions.

Look, too, for a powerful engine, easy steering, short turning ability, and extra payload capacity.

You'll get all these advantages when you choose a Dodge "Job-Rated" 1½- or 2-ton truck.

Yes, look for the best in a 1½- or 2-ton truck, and you'll find it in a Dodge. Come in today.

Big Power at a Saving. Dodge "Job-Rated" 1½- and 2-ton trucks feature a high-compression 109-h.p. engine. For outstanding economy, you get 4-ring pistons, chrome-plated top rings, and other advantages.

Exceptional Handling Ease. Champion Truck Roadeo contestants choose Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks because you can cut sharper, maneuver easier, park faster—thanks to wide front tread and short wheelbase.

Fast Delivery Work. There's a 5-speed transmission available on most models for higher road speeds—greater pulling power. And low loading height simplifies the job of loading and unloading.

"In all-'round satisfactory performance, dependability and economy, our Dodge 'Job-Rated' 2-ton trucks have done a remarkable job for us.

"In fact, one truck has 80,000 miles on it, and the only replacement has been a new jet in the carburetor. That's economical maintenance you just can't beat!

"My partner, Eric Samuelson, swears by Dodge, too . . . says our 2-ton trucks handle just like a passenger car."

See us today for the best buy in low-cost transportation...

Youthful Musicians Delight Audience With Concert in Washington School

A capacity audience in the George Washington School auditorium was delighted with the intelligent and smooth performance given by 200 local children participating in the all-grade orchestra concert under the direction of Miss Lulu May Roberts.

The girls, wearing long dresses in pastel shades, made a delightful picture as they lent the traditional concert touch to the scene on stage.

For his violin solo, Tavern in the Town, Freddie Hemple was attired in a cowboy costume.

The Roberti brothers, John, Louis and Nicky, were highly commended both as soloists and trio players. They, too, wore cowboy costumes.

First-grade Douglas Eighmey playing grown-up tuba parts and solos, added credit to his older brothers David, clarinetist, and Phil playing the trumpet. They were an excellent ensemble.

Jerry Singer's cello playing of The Swan by Saint-Saens was outstanding for one so young who has had but a year's training in class lessons.

Dianne Thomas showed great poise as the concert mistress. A further evidence of this young lady's poise and ability were shown during the rendition of a violin solo. She played, from memory, a long concerto, and missed not a single note during the retuning of her instrument.

Space does not permit singling out each and every youngster in the orchestra. They all performed ably and well.

At the conclusion of the concert, Miss Roberts expressed her appreciation to all the committees and said "I am very grateful to the parents and teachers who were the back stage helpers and without whom the young players could not have had a unified purpose."

Shot Over Pin-Ups

Clayton, Ga., April 9 (AP)—Charges of assault with intent to murder have been placed against two youths who shot their teacher during an argument over pin-up pictures. The teacher, J. T. Stukes, 26, is expected to recover from two .22-caliber bullet wounds in the chest. Sheriff Lamon Queen said the students admitted the shooting. He listed them as Fred R. McColl, 15, of College, Park, Ga., and Randolph D. Fugate, 14, of Boca Grande, Fla. Pin-ups are prohibited at the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee School, where the shooting occurred Monday night. The sheriff said a former girl friend of Fugate's turned in the youths because Fugate refused to give her a negative showing her in a bathing suit. The boys also had negatives of two other girls in bathing suits, Queen said, but none of the pictures was lewd or obscene.

The Spanish Armada was composed of 132 ships.

No Poison Danger

Bristol, Pa., April 9 (AP)—The accidental dumping of 7,000 pounds of poison into the Delaware river from a chemical plant has not caused any immediate danger, Philadelphia city chemists announced today after preliminary testing. Acetone cyanhydrin is used in the manufacture of plastics and insecticides at the plant. Taylor explained that it will decompose in water after a short time.
